

Dairy Leaders Now Intend to Present Case to Producers

Upstate Farmers Will Meet at Syracuse Friday to Plan What Action They'll Take for Industry

Milk Moves Here

Throughout Local Region All Dealers Are Said to Be Getting Supplies

Upstate dairy leaders planned today to take their troubles—complete collapse of two price-fixing measures—direct to the rank and file of the ailing industry, according to the Associated Press.

Officials of a central milk sales committee, unsuccessful in attempts to secure 90 per cent dealer cooperation in voluntary continuation of an invalidated milk marketing pact, announced a meeting of upstate dairy farmers at Syracuse Friday.

The announcement came a few hours after both a federal-state milk marketing pact and the state's Rogers-Allen milk control law, under which marketing agreements had been set up, were formally suspended by federal and state officials.

Pact Suspends

The federal-state pact was suspended by the Department of Agriculture in Washington. Three hours later State Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes took similar action with the state law. Both were previously declared unconstitutional in court rulings.

Noyes pleaded that there be no strike or violence in connection with the rulings. At the same time he foresaw "a temporary period of great uncertainty" throughout the state's milk shed.

Prior to his decision, the agriculture commissioner said producer-attempts to secure contracts representing 90 per cent of New York city's milk supply had failed. This number was necessary to insure continuance of the invalidated pact.

Only 56.9 per cent of the total milk supply was covered by contracts already in the hands of department officials, he asserted. Additional contracts he said were in the mails would raise the total to 58.1 per cent.

No Official Regulation

"Until some plan is adopted, or the invalidated system of control has been restored by legislation or a higher court," Noyes declared, "the dairy industry will have to function without official regulation of prices."

The state legislature already has before it legislation designed to restore the Rogers-Allen law and both federal and state officials have instituted appeals to the higher courts for a final ruling.

Suspension of regulation left the two billion dollar industry on its own for the first time since 1933 when legislation was first enacted authorizing fixing of prices to aid producers and to be charged consumers.

This law was in force until 1937 when the Rogers-Allen law, providing for price-fixing by collective bargaining, was enacted. Dairy leaders viewed suspension of the latter with concern today.

Nothing New in County

John L. Schoonmaker, chairman of the Ulster county milk producers' committee, said that there was nothing new on the situation in this county, except that following the statement that the campaign to sign up 90 per cent of the dealers had failed, restrictions on movement of milk in this county had been removed and producers were delivering their milk to creameries as before the recent move got under way.

Milk was reported moving to all dealers this morning, but as to prices to be received that, it was stated, would not be known until milk checks were received at the end of the month.

Although their objective was not attained, Mr. Schoonmaker said he felt that the recent campaign had been well worthwhile.

Fire Makes Rain

Everglades Blaze in Florida Near Fort Lauderdale Also Grounds All Planes

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 15 (AP)—A fire so huge that it generated rain slowly ate into nearly 15,000 acres of muck soil in the Everglades west of here today.

The smoke pall over the blazing area obscured the sun and delayed all traffic between Miami and the north. Acres of sawgrass, baked by the heat, caused the flames to spread rapidly.

A column of intense smoke, rising perhaps a mile high, covered the area north and west of the burning meadows. From the smoke a slow drizzle of mud-colored rain fell, caused by the heat of the fire.

Rosendale Society To Honor C. J. Curtin

Dean of New York Cement Manufacturers Will Be Guest at Dinner Dance at Hotel Roosevelt April 15—Farley, Loughran, Dr. Demarest and Beach to Speak

A tribute will be paid Cornelius J. Curtin, dean of New York's cement manufacturers at a dinner-dance to be given by the Rosendale Society at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York, April 15th, it was announced today.

Townsmen's Guest

CORNELIUS J. CURTIN

Additional data pertaining to this dinner will be found on Page 14.

The event will commemorate the arrival of Mr. Curtin in New York city 50 years ago from Rosendale. Rutgers University is joining Rosendale in honoring another of its famous sons, the Rev. Jacob Rutgers Hardenbergh, on the same occasion.

Farley Among Speakers
Speakers for the occasion will include Postmaster General James M. Farley and Justice John T. Loughran, of the New York State Court of Appeals, and Dr. William H. S. Demarest, past president of Rutgers University.

Members of the Rosendale Society feel that in doing honor to Mr. Curtin, they also do honor to all the men "whose labor of hand, mind and heart" established the fame of Rosendale, as the great natural cement center of the world.

William N. Beach, son of Rosendale's most famous cement manufacturer and former president of the Lawrenceville Cement Company, and of the famous Beach's plant, will be another of the speakers for the occasion.

Will Tell of Col. Rutsen

The fascinating story of Col. Jacob Rutsen, the first settler of Rosendale, and of the birth of Dr. Hardenbergh in historic "Hardenbergh Hall," which was already a century old when the American colonies rebelled against Great Britain, will be told by Dr. Demarest.

Dr. Demarest will recall the labors of Dr. Hardenbergh in behalf of the independence of the American Colonies and in behalf of the then infant Queens College, later re-named Rutgers. He will touch also upon the friendship which grew between this son of Rosendale and George Washington.

Dr. Demarest, himself has some personal interest in Ulster county, since his great-great grandfather, the Rev. Henry Polhemus, was pastor of the Church of the Shawangunk, at Brunswick, 1813 to 1816.

Memorial for Schools

It is the opinion of members of the Rosendale Society that the charm thus attendant upon this association of old Rosendale with the great historical figures out of its past, has been reserved to but a few of its families, chiefly through the failure of the schools to possess any mementos of the great events and personages who forever will be assigned by history to intimate association with Rosendale.

In recognition of this duty and as a symbol of the warm and cordial interest which Mr. Curtin has shown in the welfare of every boy and girl from Rosendale, the society at the dinner will take the initial step toward providing with replicas of existing historical documents which are part of the heritage of all in Rosendale.

Copies of the documents have been made available to the schools through the courtesy of Edward Coykendall, and Katherine Madden, of Kingston, who are holders of the original manuscripts.

Postmaster General Farley will present the first of these replicas in a formal dedication which will be part of the program.

It is the hope of the society that their step will be the beginning of a movement that will continue to grow in the interest of preserving facts of historic value.

The society wishes to show appreciation for the interest of others in its welfare, and arrangements have been made to provide space at the banquet table for this occasion for friends of the society. The society is particularly anxious to have present the descendants of Dr. Jacob Rutsen Hardenbergh.

Those Expected to Attend
Among the friends of Rosendale who have indicated their desire to honor Mr. Curtin may be included: The Rt. Rev. Mgr. John J. Hickey, the Rev. William J. McDonnell, the Rev. Arthur E. O'Donnell, the Rev. Ernest R. Palen, William E. Bruyn, Dr. William S. Bush, the Hon. Edward A. Conger, the Hon. Philip Elting, E. Frank Flanagan, the Hon. Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck, Dr. John D. Lucey and the Hon. Thomas J. Whalen. In order that timely arrangements may be made for the printing of table assignments, it is requested that all names be furnished as early as possible. Tables for 10 will be reserved for subscribers desiring to sit together. Seating to be arranged in the order of acceptance. Reception will begin at 7:30 p. m.; dinner at 8:30 o'clock.

All communications should be addressed to James C. Huben, 61 Broadway, New York.

Smothers Is Given Six Months; Tried To Smuggle Letter

Negro Who Finished Equal Sentence Picked Up on Petit Larceny Charge; Then Search Reveals Letters

That is does not pay to smuggle a letter written by another prisoner out of the county jail was impressed on John Smothers, 28, a negro of this city, when, on his plea of guilty he was sentenced to serve 180 days in the county jail by Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court today.

Smothers, who had been serving a six months term in the jail, was discharged Monday, and was picked up Tuesday afternoon by the police at the Shell gas station on Foxhall avenue.

Petit Larceny Charge

He was charged with petit larceny in the theft of 18 cents from the gas station and Judge Cahill on that charge imposed a jail sentence of one year and a fine of $500, but suspended the payment of the fine and the serving of the sentence provided Smothers behave himself in the future.

In imposing the jail sentence of a year and the fine Judge Cahill informed Smothers, who had pleaded guilty, that he has been in trouble several times in gas station robberies and the city would be well rid of him. The judge informed him that after serving the 180 days in jail he would find it wise to shake the dust of the city from his feet.

Gas Station Calls

Tuesday the police department received a call from the Shell gas station at which time Smothers was picked up on a technical charge of vagrancy. The attendant at the gas station said Smothers had been in the office alone and that the attendant in looking in the cash drawer had found missing a package containing 50 pennies. He then went out to wait on a customer and told him to call the police.

Returning to the office he again looked in the drawer and found the missing package back in the drawer.

Still later the attendant in lifting out the package of pennies found it had been opened and that the package contained only 32 cents. When Smothers was searched at police headquarters eight cents in pennies was found on him, and a package of cigarettes. Smothers said he had taken out the 18 cents from the package of pennies and then replaced it, and had used 10 of the 18 pennies to buy a package of cigarettes.

Letter Is Discovered

In searching Smothers the police found a letter hidden under his belt. The letter had been written by Myron Gillespie, a prisoner in the county jail, and it was addressed to Gillespie's wife, who is living in this city.

Under the penal code it is a misdemeanor to smuggle a letter written by a prisoner out of the jail.

The police took charge of the letter and later turned copies of it over to the district attorney and the sheriff.

Sanford Reports 11 Scarlet Fever Cases in February

Health Officers' Report Shows Nine Cases in School No. 8; Milk Code and Practice of Bakers Discussed

Eleven cases of scarlet fever were reported in Kingston during February, as compared with the 59 cases of the disease reported in February of 1938. Of the 11 cases reported last month nine were among the pupils of School No. 8, and the two other cases were out of town children who had been brought into the city for treatment.

Cases in School No. 8

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, in reply to questions, stated at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health on Tuesday evening that so far this month nine cases of scarlet fever were reported in the city, but that the cases were scattered, and only two of the cases were pupils at school No. 8.

The greater part of the meeting last night was given over to a discussion of milk and it was decided to hold a meeting soon of members of the board who have the revision of the milk code in charge to discuss what changes, if any, shall be made.

Shultis Gives Report

Sanitary Inspector Charles W. Shultis when questioned about the regulation requiring all baked goods delivered by bakers to be wrapped, said that the provision was being generally complied with. He said that the police took several out of town bakers to the city hall where the provision was explained to them and they were furnished copies of the regulation.

The report of the registrar of the board showed that during February there were 59 births and 58 deaths in Kingston. The report showed that 23 of the births were those of non-residents, and 18 non-resident deaths were recorded. There had been four stillbirths in the city.

In February of last year there were 57 births and 61 deaths.

The workers asked for a six-hour day and a 50-cent-a-day increase.

Soviet Commissar Says Reds Ready to Punish Invaders

Moscow, March 15 (AP)—War Commissar Klementi E. Voroshiloff told the 18th Communist party congress in a speech published today that a vastly augmented red army and red air force was ready swiftly to punish any aggression against Soviet Russian territory.

Apparently no worry was felt, however, over the dismemberment of the one time Soviet ally, Czechoslovakia—which was called a "continuation of Munich" and a matter in which the Soviet Union was not directly interested.

Voroshiloff disclosed that fast bombing planes capable of climbing nearly 50,000 feet were ready to swoop down on even a distant enemy and could carry three times the weight of bombs possible five years ago. Soviet planes, he said, could drop an aggregate of 6,160 tons of explosives in a single flight.

Committee Studies School Candidates

Board of Education Group Seeking New School Superintendent Considers Ten

Meeting last evening for its first session to consider candidates for the position of superintendent of schools of the city of Kingston, the committee named by President Alfred Schmid of the board of education went over 10 applications to study the qualifications of the candidates.

The committee will consider the applications in groups of 10 and from these groups will select such applicants as appear to be what the city needs. Later these men will be investigated further and then summoned before the committee for interview.

The committee which has this matter in charge is President Schmid, Trustees E. H. Remmert, Clarence Rowland and Bernard A. Feeney.

As applications come in or become known to the members of the committee, it will study the applications in such groups. In the event a man seems to meet the requirements visits will be made to the town where the applicant is engaged and a check-up will be made on his work and his home town recommendations. When all candidates have been considered and the most favorable ones interviewed the committee will make a selection of three or four from the list and these names will be submitted to the entire board of education for the final selection of a superintendent to succeed Prof. B. C. Van Ingen, who is retiring from active work August 1, if a successor can be found by that time.

The local board of education is seeking a man who has had previous experience as a superintendent of schools or a man who holds a superintendent's certification by the state department of education and who has had experience as an assistant superintendent of schools in a large town.

German Troops Hold Prague, Pilsen and Other Principal Cities; Czechs Are Stunned by Events

British Criticize

Chamberlain Tells Commons He Bitterly Resents Hitler's Latest Move

(By The Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler entered newly-absorbed Bohemia today as his armies and those of Hungary divided up the remains of shattered Czechoslovakia.

The German fuhrer crossed the frontier on his way to Prague, where General Johannes Blaskowitz of the German army proclaimed authority over all of Bohemia in Hitler's name.

Hitler was expected to wait until Friday, however, for a triumphal entry into Prague after Nazi security forces have made certain no untoward incident mars his arrival in the ancient Bohemian capital.

Troops Swarm Cities

The German army poured across the borders of the vanished republic and occupied Prague, Pilsen, and other principal cities while stunned Czechs stood by as their once-proud nation came under full Nazi control.

German forces moved in Slovakia, the new-born republic east of Bohemia-Moravia, Prague's old domain. Hungary's army, with German acquiescence, swept through the Carpatho-Ukraine region, farthest eastern section of old Czechoslovakia.

British leaders cautiously criticized Hitler's occupation of Bohemia and Moravia.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons he "bitterly" regretted Germany's move, but that it must not deflect Britain from attempting to reach peace by agreement. Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax turned it "a shock to confidence."

Cancel Visit

Chamberlain cancelled a scheduled visit to Germany by Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, and overseas Trade Secretary R. H. Hudson for trade talks.

Fulfillment at least partially of the ancient German dream of expansion eastward came after Czechoslovakia's president, Emil Hacha, capitulated last night to Hitler's demands that the Czech army be broken up, Czech foreign affairs be surrendered to Nazi hands and Bohemia-Moravia become provinces with only cultural autonomy under German dominion.

Cries of "Pfiu, Pfiu"—the continental version of the Bronx cheer—greeted Hitler's marching legions in Prague and other cities, but there was no resistance.

Hitler's exact destination was unknown but it was believed he would proceed like a conqueror to Hradecny Castle, the fortress residence of Czechoslovakia's rulers in Prague.

Must Observe Rules

The precise form the relationship of Bohemia-Moravia to the rest of the German Reich would take was something which Hitler has been pondering. Government spokesmen made it plain, however, that the following facts must be recognized as irrevocable:

Hacha has ceased to be president. Hitler will work in close cooperation with him, however, for the liquidation of the Czech state.

The Czech army has ceased to exist. As a gesture of civility, however, Czech officers were permitted to keep their sabres and side-arms, and were not compelled to hand them over to German occupation officers.

The Czechs and Moravians will be conceded full cultural autonomy.

More AFL-CIO Conferences Will Be Held in Washington at Labor Department

New York, March 15 (AP)—A resumption of labor peace negotiations in Washington, after a nine-day recess, was arranged today by the American Federation of Labor and the congress of industrial organizations.

At the end of their third New York meeting last night, the conferees—brought together originally by President Roosevelt—announced the transfer of their conference back to the capital, but declined to say what progress, if any, had been made.

They will meet again on March 24, in the labor department.

Legislative Drive Against Radical Groups Gains Speed

Albany, N. Y., March 15 (AP)—The legislative drive against subversive activities of radical groups was speeded today by Assembly passage of a bill which would close state armories to organizations advocating the overthrow of government.

The measure, sponsored by Democratic Assemblyman Bernard Austin, Brooklyn, went to the Senate. Its approval in the assembly came as that house scheduled final action, probably next week, on two measures designed to bar persons urging violence against government from New York's civil service.

Both legislative houses voted scores of minor bills as they slipped into an adjournment drive for which docks are being partly cleared by committee defeat of $102,000,000 of Assembly appropriation measures. At the same time delays were threatened by possible prolonged controversy over stabilization of the two billion dollar milk industry.

Rejection of 97 spending proposals, reflecting again the economy-mindedness of legislators puzzling over a satisfactory balancing of Governor Lehman's record $415,032,122 budget, was reported by the Assembly ways and means committee as nearly 150 measures went into the legislative discard.

Milk Bill Intensified While the speed-up of the session was further accentuated by the powerful rules committee's assumption of control over all bills in the Assembly, the necessity of legislative support for the milk industry was intensified by suspension of milk price-fixing orders hitherto operative under

Industrials, Rails Gained Tuesday; Bonds Were Lower

The market opened irregularly lower Tuesday, but strengthened during the day and closed with industrials and rails showing slight gains for the day. The foreign situation, so far as concerns the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, now going on, did not, apparently, have any great effect on the market, which followed the same course as did London, where the market turned firmer at midday, following resignation of the Czech government. At the close yesterday industrial issues had gained 0.31 point, to 151.10 in the Dow Jones averages; rails were up 0.03, to 32.75, while the utility showed a small loss, 0.05 point, to 26.00.

A change has been made by Dow-Jones in the list of industrial stocks used as a basis for computing averages. American Telephone and United Aircraft have been substituted for International Business Machines and Nash Kelvinator.

Bonds were irregularly lower yesterday. Commodities, also, were off irregularly. Wheat was down about a cent in Chicago, corn was down about the same. Cotton closed one to six points lower. Silk and hides led a rally. Both hoisery and weaving interests were reported buying spot silk as there were fears that another advance in silk may be developing.

Although congressional leaders have been saying that there would be no major tax revision at this session of Congress, the President, at a press conference yesterday, revealed that consideration is being given to rearranging federal corporation levies, with a proposal to consolidate about five federal corporation taxes into one tax. It was stated that such consolidation would not reduce total revenue.

Representatives of 16 national securities exchanges yesterday submitted to the SEC a program calling for revisions and modifications of the present rules and methods of regulation. It was claimed that the present procedure is unduly restrictive, in damaging the flow of capital, in producing thin markets for securities and not helpful to the investing public.

Two British firms are negotiating with DuPont Co. for rights to manufacture Nylon, new synthetic textile fibre, in Great Britain. Phillips Petroleum proposes to increase common stock to 7,500,000 shares from present 5,000,000 shares.

Proctor & Gamble declared common stock dividend of 1-7/8th of a share for each share outstanding, also cash dividend of 50 cents. Also authorized redemption of 50 per cent of 5 per cent preferred stock at $110 was authorized and regular quarterly of $1.25 on 5 per cent preferred.

Reading showed improved business in January as compared with last year, net being $366,362, vs. $54,429 in January, 1938.

Senate and House conferees yesterday agreed to allow airplane manufacturers on government contracts to average profits of 12 per cent over a five year period. The conference committee also eliminated the Barkley Amendment which would forbid award of contracts to airplane makers found guilty of violating the Wagner Labor Act.

Domestic machine tool orders in February rose to the highest level in more than a year. Central Hudson Gas & Electric reported net income of $1,595,452 for year ended December 31, equal after dividends on 4 1/2 per cent cumulative preferred to 85 cents a share on 1,500,000 new shares of common. Comparing with net of $1,740,189, or 95 cents on common in 1937.

New York, March 15 (AP)—A heavy burst of selling today disturbed the composure the stock market had shown in face of developments in central Europe and some shares lost 2 to 4 points before the list braced after midday.

Prices near the final hour were somewhat above the day's lows but losses throughout the list made it the sharpest setback the market has had in a month.

Transactions increased substantially, setting a pace of about 1,300,000 shares for a full session. Steels, motors and others outstanding in the recent slow-up-swing dropped fastest under sudden downpour of selling in the middle of the forenoon period. The ticker for a while fell behind the market in the rush.

Especially weak were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Kennecott, Westinghouse, du Pont, Youngstown, Montgomery Ward and American Telephone.

Corporate bonds backed down with stocks but most commodities stuck to a narrow course. In the curb, the selling took a point or so from Croire, Electric Bond & Share, Lake Shore Mines and Newmont.

Justice Schirick. He asked 30 days time.

Stay is Limited Justice Schirick, however, limited the stay to April 7 at 10 o'clock here or prior to that time before Justice MacCraty, who has been designated by Governor Lehman to preside at the extraordinary term to inquire into the alleged frauds in Albany county.

The stay was granted by Justice Schirick after he had heard arguments by Assistant Attorney General Edward T. Kelly and Judge Prior. Kelly questioned the jurisdiction of the court to entertain the motion, inferring that all matters pertaining to the matter should be heard before the justice assigned by the governor to hear the matter. He held that in assigning Justice MacCraty the governor referred all matters to him and he held the Supreme Court had no jurisdiction.

Novel Question of Law Justice Schirick in deciding the motion for the stay said he was faced with a novel question of law, one which had no precedent, but he held that a defendant was entitled to a stay as a matter of law pending application for a change of venue. He said there may be a question of whether he had jurisdiction and he said it was possible only Justice MacCraty had power in the matter but he was going to grant the stay.

Justice Schirick indicated that he would require the application for a change of venue to be made on April 7 at 10 o'clock or before that to Justice MacCraty and he would not extend the time beyond that date. He indicated that he did not care to delay the trial of the action longer than absolutely necessary. He said if the application for a change of venue is made to him he would render a speedy decision on that question so the trial might proceed.

Meanwhile Assistant Attorney General McGoigh is awaiting word of two State Troopers who have gone to Dayton, O., armed with extradition papers to return William Johnson to New York. He is charged with illegal registration and voting.

Hitler Follows His Soldiers

They will fly the Nazi swastika as their flag, but on festive occasions they may also fly their ancient Bohemian and Moravian national flags.

Their passports will be German but possibly with a notation indicating that the holder is a Czech by "folkdom." Foreign legations in Prague will be changed to consulates.

As Bohemia and Moravia are now part of greater Germany, obviously German money, German postage stamps, German regulations for imports and exports will obtain.

Insofar as possible local government will be in the hands of Bohemians and Moravians.

Existing commercial agreements with other nations will be handled in the same manner as was done in the case of Austria and Sudetenland—by mutual agreement with the opposite contracting parties.

No male belonging to the Bohemian or Moravian "folkdom" will be expected to serve in the army of greater Germany.

Whether or not members of either "folk group" can be used as policemen depends on the spirit of loyalty to the new regime which Bohemia and Moravia will show in ensuing days. If accepted, they must naturally swear an oath of loyalty to Hitler.

Administrative officials will be allowed to continue to function in so far as they are willing loyally to serve their new master.

Summing up these plans, a government spokesman said: "We shall be guided by two principles in liquidating the former Czech state from the viewpoint of state policy Bohemia and Moravia are now a part of greater Germany; from the viewpoint of racial or folk policy the greatest possible cultural autonomy will be accorded the people who have now placed themselves under our protection."

The spokesman further predicted that "from the viewpoint of their economic welfare the social security, Bohemians and Moravians face a much better future in our own larger state than their small state could accord them."

Regarding Jews, the spokesman was direct and unequivocal: "The same principles that obtain with reference to Jews in greater Germany will, of course, be invoked in our protectorate also. We don't believe, however, that the problem is formidable. There has been a mass exodus of Jews ever since the Munich accord."

For the present, Germany regards Slovakia as an independent state, but it is obvious Slovakia must toe the German line no less than Bohemia and Moravia, even though its outward existence may be more "independent."

Neither France nor Britain raised objections to Germany's expansion eastward, but the British ambassador in Berlin was instructed to make inquiries concerning the occupation of Czechoslovakia and German intentions there.

France was informed by Germany that Bohemia-Moravia had been taken over with an implied warning that France must keep hands off the central European crisis.

While Hungary's troops moved into the Carpatho-Ukraine region, Hungary sent an ultimatum to the government of that region demanding complete capitulation today.

Hitler's axis partner, Premier Mussolini of Italy, met with his cabinet and was believed to have discussed the extension of German power in mid-Europe.

Western District Scouts Hold Rally About 70 Boy Scouts, from five troops in the Western District, had a good time at their rally Tuesday night.

In the absence of C. H. Weidner, district commissioner, kept at home because of sickness, Scout Executive R. Gardiner Burns, had charge of the rally.

After the opening ceremonies, including the pledge and Scout oath, a program of ten events was hotly contested, the close showing Troop 61 of Shandaken and Troop 63 of Pine Hill tied for first place, each having won five first places and two second places. Troop 63 of West Shandaken placed third. Other troops contesting were those from Phoenicia and Mt. Tremper.

The program of events included: Over and under relay, chariot race, knot tying relay, stretcher race, Paul Revere race, fire by friction, candle relay, first-aid contest, ping pong relay and skin the snake.

Program closed with recitation of the scout law and the scout benediction.

Beer Takes on Irish Colors at Huling's Barn William A. Fitzpatrick has hit onto a real St. Patrick's Day novelty to offer at Huling's Barn, Friday—green beer.

Yesterday, Bill had sort of a preview at his night club and surprised a group of visitors with the green brew. "Sure, and it's a secret I have," was the answer he gave when asked how he colored the amber fluid.

Anyway, whether "Fitz" was handing out a lot of blarney about the secret, his guests agreed that it was a good stunt for Paddy's day.

Local Death Record

Mrs. William E. Schreiber, formerly of Woodstock, died here today. Surviving is one son, Cecil, of Woodstock. Funeral and burial private.

Alphonus Harris died Tuesday. He was a son of the late Eugene and Florence Forhan Harris, and is survived by two sisters, Miss Hanna Harris and Mrs. John W. Steltz, and a brother, Joseph Harris. Funeral services will be held from the late home, 87 Foxhall avenue, on Friday morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 o'clock in St. Mary's Church, where a requiem Mass will be offered. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

New Hurley, March 15—Daniel V. Fowler, a resident of this place all his life, died at his home on the Plains road early Friday morning after a few days' illness. He was in his 54th year. Surviving are three daughters, Julia and Carrie Fowler, of Newburgh, and Jennie Van Wyck of Ellenville, and three sons, Charles at home, Mayland of Walden, and James of Marlborough. The funeral was held in the New Hurley Reformed Church Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Vernon Nagel. Burial was in the family plot in the New Hurley Cemetery in charge of Undertaker Jesse McHugh, of Walkkill.

John Bienu died this morning at his home in Flatbush, where he and his wife conducted a summer boarding house. Mr. Bienu was a member of the Summer Resort Association and he and his wife have resided in Saugerties and Flatbush for the past ten years. He was a brother of the late William Bienu, proprietor of the Central House in Phoenicia, who died several days ago. Surviving are his wife and a sister, Mrs. Mary Smith, of Nutley, N. J. The body was removed to the Keenan & Son funeral parlors in Saugerties, where it will remain until Friday, when it will be taken to New York city for the funeral and burial in the Lutheran Cemetery in Middle Village, L. I.

Henry Smith of Saugerties, who was spending the winter in Miami, Fla., died at that place at 6:30 o'clock on Monday evening. Bronchial pneumonia was the cause of Mr. Smith's death. He was 68 years of age. A wife, one sister, Mrs. Fannie Stern, and a brother, Jacob Smith, of Cincinnati, Ohio; and a brother, Stanley Smith, of New York city, survive him. Mr. Smith was the son of the late Joseph and Flora Smith, who resided in Saugerties, occupying the brick house now owned by the Henry Dickhaut estate on the corner of Washington avenue and Russell street. He was educated in the Saugerties schools and after moving to New York city engaged in business where he was very successful. A few years ago he retired and devoted much of his time to travel. Mr. Smith with his wife spent his summers in Saugerties and last year he leased the Albert Cartright house on Market street, having decided to reside there hereafter. Last fall as was his custom with Mrs. Smith, he went to Miami for the winter season and it was while in the Florida city that he developed the illness which proved fatal to him. Mr. Smith was a man of many fine qualities and held in high esteem by all who knew him.

Dr. John T. Becker of Poughkeepsie, who died at Vassar Hospital Monday night after an illness of several months, was well known in Ulster county. Dr. Becker, who at one time had an office in Stone Ridge, has a daughter, Mrs. Lansing Hunt, in Kingston. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Becker, he was born at Harlemville, N. Y., in 1870, and spent the early years of his career carpentering by means of which he earned his way through preparatory school and college. He was graduated from Pennington Seminary, Pennington, N. J., in 1897, receiving the annual medal for highest scholarship. In 1901 he received his A. B. degree cum laude from Syracuse University. In November, 1902, he was married to Ethel L. Taber of Brooklyn, whom he had met at Pennington. After a year's absence he returned to Syracuse, receiving his M. D. degree in 1905. His splendid tenor voice kept him in constant demand in school and church choirs and quartets. He spent much time in quartet work for prohibition, a cause in which he heartily believed and for which he fought. He is survived by his wife, Ethel L. Becker; his son, John S. Becker, of Poughkeepsie; four daughters, Mrs. Bernard Herman of Pine Plains, Ethelyn Becker of Danbury, Conn., Mrs. Fred Brooks, Jr., of Sharon, Conn., and Mrs. Lansing Hunt of Kingston, and 11 grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at the Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Card of Thanks We wish to express our sincere thanks to the friends and neighbors who assisted so kindly during the sickness and death of our dear wife and mother, Delishy Personous, to those who sent flowers, to those who stayed to arrange the house after the funeral and to the Rev. Brown for his comforting words.

Emery Personous, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson and family

OUTDOOR FORUMS

The growth of "public forums" in this country today is almost incredible. There is hardly a city that hasn't its "discussion groups" of one or another, meeting regularly to talk about public affairs and world problems. The "Town Meeting of the Air" conducted in New York City along with the thousand smaller groups born of it throughout the country, is an impressive example of this tremendous urge to exchange ideas on important matters.

All this sort of thing probably started 24 centuries ago, when the philosopher Socrates assembled his informal discussion groups on street corners or in the Athenian market place and argued about everything in the heavens above and on the earth beneath. It was taken up in big way later in Rome, whose market place or "Forum" produced the very name we still use for our unofficial debates. The "Round Table" is a much later idea, but a valuable addition, referring perhaps to the table at which legendary King Arthur and his knights sat, ate and talked, on terms of equality, because there was no "head of the table."

All this is by way of leading up to the point that our American "forums" thus far have been mostly indoors, when by origin and heritage they really should be outdoors when climate and weather permit. It would ease the argumentative pressure of this nation if every town had at least one spot, with a raised platform, preferably of solid stone, where any citizen or visitor at any time could stand up and get anything off his chest.

Cleveland used to have a famous forum of this sort in the days of Mayor Tom Johnson. There has long been one in Hyde Park, London, and in Boston Common. It's a great thing to ease the political, social and oratorical pressure of a community.

ART SAVED, PEOPLE LOST

There is one thing about which the Spanish Republican government and the Rebel government seem to have agreed from the first. That was the protection of Spain's art treasures from the destruction of war. There are today in Geneva, Switzerland, 1,842 packing cases of Spanish art removed there for safekeeping. Their contents, it is said, are in excellent condition. Representatives of both sides cooperated in the work.

While soldiers were at the front fighting, other men worked at the task of carefully packing and carting out of the country the works of Velasquez, Murillo, El Greco and Goya. Beautiful buildings have been destroyed or badly damaged, but movable art has largely been saved.

This fine, civilized war was taken during a war which has cost Spain the lives of three-quarters of a million people. The casualties of that civil war have been heavier than those of any single nation in the World War. Is it not strange that mankind can recognize the importance of saving great art, yet remain indifferent to the importance of human life, human justice, human charity? Could not the same spirit that saved Spanish art have saved the Spanish people from the suffering, hatred and chaos of war?

Spain is not alone in its blindness to these values. The whole civilized world today is laid low by the same blindness.

CITY BELLS

A scissors-grinder's bell had its day in court recently when a New York policeman charged its owner with violating the anti-noise ordinance.

It was argued in defense that "a bell is a beautiful thing if it has a good tone and is not too loud." The judge was urged to recall "those gentle bells of St. Mary's or the deep clangor of Big Ben or the chimes of Christmas Eve as they ring around our twirling old world."

The judge was more practical than poetical. He asked the scissors-grinder to ring his bell. It was a bit loud and harsh.

"This does not sound like the bells of St. Mary's," said the judge, proceeding to find the man guilty, suspend sentence, and add the advice, "In the future don't make too much noise."

There must be much worse noises in New York City than the occasional clang of a scissors-grinder's bell. In fact, it is surprising ing to learn that anything so old-fashioned as an itinerant scissors-grinder with a bell still wanders along the sidewalks of New York. He must be a boon to those New Yorkers-by-choice who never quite get over being homesick for the old home town.

PREVENTING CRIME

"A good school is the best agency of crime prevention we have, even though it accomplishes its results indirectly and never mentions the words 'crime prevention,'" says A. H. McCormick, New York commissioner of correction.

Certainly! Because a good school, wisely run, interests the boys and girls, makes them busy and happy in their work and play, keeps mischief out of their minds and so keeps them out of mischief.

Without wholesome interests they will get into bad habits. When they become interested in constructive work, they form good habits.

This way of putting it may seem unduly simplified. There are, unfortunately, some boys and girls that not much can be done with, but probably fewer than a person might think. Not many human beings have a positive urge toward evil. The evil creeps into their minds mostly when they are not occupied with interesting activities.

You can't trust your senses. New York City looks treeless, but the Times says there are a million trees there.

FINDING THE CAUSE OF HIVES

Some years ago whilst lecturing to a group of high school teachers, a number came to me at the close of the lecture stating that they were afflicted with itchy lumps on the skin. I naturally suspected hives (urticaria) as they were all living in the same large old house, and, as I thought, eating the same food. However, on examining the lumps closely I detected a small dark red spot in center of each lump—the bite of an insect (bedbugs). This little spot in the center of the lump is usually good evidence of insect bites.

In hives (urticaria) the lump is pinkish white, very itchy, but with no central spot (bite). And urticaria in most cases is due to some food or foods to which the individual is sensitive or allergic. And just about the time the patient believes he has discovered the offending food some other food appears to be causing the latest attack.

Dr. F. F. Heller, London, in Lancet, outlines a method of locating the food that causes hives. He suggests that the patient keep a diary, on one page of which he should put down everything he eats and on the opposite page whenever he gets an attack of hives. He can also get skin tests with things he commonly eats. If this does not give any help and his condition is severe, he should be put on an almost starvation diet consisting only of milk until the hives disappear. Then he should have gradual additions to his diet and it may be found then that following the eating of one certain or specific food his hives will break out again. Just leaving this one food out of his diet may prevent attacks of hives.

Sometimes it is very difficult to locate the cause of urticaria because the offending substance, eggs for instance, will be in a cake or other prepared food and therefore not suspected by the patient although he may know that he is sensitive or allergic to eggs.

Despite skin, food, or other tests, there are some individuals whose urticaria is most persistent and other methods of treatment are necessary.

In the treatment of the small raised lumps or hives in children, Dr. Heller suggests that the starch foods—bread, potatoes, pastry, sugar—be reduced in amount.

Allergy
"What is one man's food is another man's poison," is an old saying but the truth of it is becoming proven almost daily by leading research physicians throughout the world. Some individuals are sensitive to various foods or other substances and may suffer from hives, intestinal upsets, headache, colds or other disturbance when they eat or come in contact with these substances. Send ten cents to the Bell Library, 217 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y., and ask for booklet entitled "Allergy." It tells how to find these offending substances and what to do about them. Mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—A youth, attempting to thumb a ride on Colorado Springs' north-south arterial highway, discovered he could operate the traffic signal at a main intersection with a nearly push button. So he turned the light red, permitted a line of cars to pile up and then walked the length of them trying for a ride. When he failed on that attempt he changed the light to green, cleared the intersection and then tried his system again on a new batch of automobile drivers. Police discovered him and he explained he was "trying to save my thumb."

Ontario, Calif. (AP)—In 1932 Mrs. C. C. Barnes bought and planted what she thought was an ordinary peach sapling. She was amazed when, in an off season, it budded well ahead of schedule and bore a fine crop of fruit. Realizing she "had something," Mrs. Barnes has taken and cultivated saplings from the original tree with conspicuous success in getting early and heavy crops. Many acres in various ranches are now planted with offspring of the freak specimen.

St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—Society has gone in for kidnaping—and finds it lots of fun. "Kidnap" buff parties are among the latest social sports at suburban Richmond heights. Just about the time that the average housewife is frowning around in wrapper and curlers, a party of women in cars descend upon the house, blindfold the surprised victim, and "kidnap" her for the breakfast party. She must go along as is, or pay a fine.

Today in Washington

Taxing Power Is One of the Principal Instruments in Bringing About Recovery

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1939
Washington, March 15.—Some-times one wonders if, in this atmosphere of intensified governmental activity, there is any realistic relationship between what is happening outside and inside Washington.

Today, for instance, after weeks and weeks of publicized doctrine variously known as "appeasement" or "cooperation" as between government and business, the world of industry is told that tax relief cannot be expected at this session of congress.

The news comes at a moment when businesses and individuals are filing tax returns. If ever there was a moment when any administration or party, mindful of political psychology, might have turned its attention to the most painful item in the whole legislative calendar, it was this very month and this very day.

But apparently the sentiment for tax relief has not penetrated the otherwise busy and pre-occupied leadership of the Democrats in both houses of congress. The argument is still made that, if some taxes are reduced, then immediately there must be increases in other directions. What seems to have been entirely overlooked is that, as deficits go, there isn't any material difference so far as the nation's fiscal condition is concerned whether the deficit is $3,100,000,000 or 3,500,000,000.

The problem of setting the nation back to recovery is the paramount issue, and, if reducing some taxes and not offsetting them mathematically will start the wheels of recovery, the federal treasury could afford to give tax relief as a business incentive and more than make up for it in ensuing years.

Generally speaking, even the left wing economists hereabouts have agreed with the principle that governments ought to tax heavily in prosperous years and do just the opposite in periods of depression. If there is anything to the idea that deficit financing is essential in a depression in order to maintain purchasing power, then it is equally logical to contend that deficit financing is essential to maintain and even increase what might be termed the "employing power."

For the last few days, the discussions about tax revision have been going on at the White House with congressional leaders. The President told the press that the question of rearranging the tax burden was still in the study stage, and Speaker Bankhead rather intimated that a "general revision" at this session was unlikely. May each one of these sources is talking of a different aspect of the tax problem.

It is by "general" revision is meant a general overhauling of the whole rate structure, then obviously this may be more than the Democratic administration is willing to undertake at present, though, to be sure, it would be one of the best things the Democrats could do to earn for themselves another lease on political life. For, unless business recovery comes, the voting in 1940 for the opposition party will follow the natural trend when economic adversity hits the electorate.

It is possible, on the other hand, to consolidate the various corporation taxes in a uniform tax and end a good deal of uncertainty and confusion. It would require no "general" revision to accomplish this. Likewise, it would be a simple matter to attach certain amendments to existing tax laws to permit debited corporations to move ahead and to allow for certain incentives to business progress. If the administration were ready to bet somewhat on business recovery, it might readily be reduced in various classifications and a larger revenue collected than heretofore. For, as business improves, the treasury receipts will increase materially. The taxing power is one of the principal instruments that can be employed to bring about economic recovery, but a mathematical attitude or inflexible position with respect to the impediments to business recovery in the tax field will defeat economic recovery and cause a general reduction in tax revenues.

Most all the negative comments that have come out of the administration, it is significant that Senator Vandenberg, Republican leader, who has his ear to the ground, announces that he will offer a bill to hold the social security taxes at their present level. Most people are unaware that there is to be a 50 per cent increase in payroll taxes scheduled for next January 1 unless Congress intervenes. The increased taxes are not needed to maintain the old age pension and unemployment insurance systems, and it is a sign of the decline of the political alertness of the Democrats that they permit the Republicans to get the jump on them in this very popular move.

Woe Is Bergen! Charlie's Kidnaped; Cops Say 'Oh Yeah'

New York, March 15. (AP)—Calling all cars! Calling all cars! Charlie McCarthy, has been kidnaped!

The nation's famous piece of wood is definitely missing, on the word of no less than Edgar Bergen, himself.

Authorities of the East 51st street police station—convinced it was a gag on someone's part—were considering a roundup of press agents.

Detective James McGowan, after an investigation, said the dummy's disappearance was purely a publicity hoax. He added that Bergen knew nothing about it.

Detectives said oak-headed Charlie, dummy of radio and screen, was last seen in the company of Frank D. Brown, a diminutive negro bellhop at the Belmont Plaza Hotel.

Brown was found trussed up with towels at 37th street and Eleventh avenue last night. He told police two men registered at the hotel had told him to go to the 17th floor of the nearby Waldorf-Astoria and pick up a large brown case.

Ethel Muthern, a desk clerk at the Waldorf, where the ventriloquist was staying, said a man who telephoned and said he was "Mr. Bergen," told her to go into his suite, get the case containing McCarthy, and give it to the bellhop.

When he left the hotel with the case, Brown told detectives, two men pushed him into a taxicab, bound him and later threw him out and drove off with Charlie—who, in the absence of his spokesman, could make no cry for help.

Bergen said Charlie was insured for $2,500 and that he might be forced to cancel his Sunday evening broadcast if he is not returned.

Today Marks Date Of Legion's Start

Twenty years ago today in Paris a group of officers who were prominent in America's part in the World War, took first definite steps to form the organization which is today known as the American Legion.

Groups of Legionnaires throughout the nation for the next five days will observe this date of origin and the local post will hold its birthday party Monday evening at Spinnys, Port Ewen.

After the World War armistice, all over the A. B. F. casual groups began spontaneously to discuss the desirability of forming a veteran's organization of the World War. The same was true in the forecasts of the navy. Among others, four officers—old friends from before the war reunited by chance in Paris late in January, 1919, discussed the matter together. It turned out, in the accidental course of subsequent events, that this particular meeting was actually the genesis of "The American Legion."

The four officers in question were Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Lt. Col. George A. White, Lt. Col. William J. Donovan and Major Eric Fisher Wood. Finally, after much missionary work in the cause of the embryo organization, a caucus of divisional representatives of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps met in the Cirque de Paris on March 15, 1919, and "The American Legion" became a real organization.

It is unique in that those eligible for membership are only all officers and enlisted personnel in the military and naval services at any time during the period from April 6, 1917, until November 11, 1918. For the past 20 years the Legion has grown from a small beginning to one of international

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich food, or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly, your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain, or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-sos for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve pain. In no time you feel better and on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25¢ package proves it. Ask for Bell-sos for indigestion.

Willow Trees Have Long And Interesting History

The willow is one of the trees which figure largely in history, and there is a wealth of legend about it. Thousands of years ago the Chinese planted willows in their cemeteries. They strewed sprays of it on the coffins of the dead, because it was a tree of long life and suggested immortality.

Another ancient legend tells that the willow was a symbol of sadness and despair, because the rods with which Christ was scourged were supposed to be of willow, writes Paul Davey in the New York World-Telegram.

In Iceland, however, it was believed that a willow wand placed in a sickroom would keep death from entering. In Scandinavia, they believed that no child could be born in safety if a willow wand were nearby.

Another old legend explains the presence of willow trees along the banks of streams. Two fishermen, so the story goes, refused to take time from their fishing to join in the worship of an ancient goddess. As a punishment they were turned into trees which hang over the waters as though watching for fish.

The golden willow is not a large tree. Its shade is not dense and grass and flowers will thrive beneath it. It is a hardy and rapid grower and withstands city smoke and dust remarkably well if it has a reasonable supply of moisture.

It was imported into this country from Russia and for this reason is sometimes called the Russian golden willow. Its wood is light and soft, but tough, and the twigs are used for basket weaving and for tying bundles in many European countries today.

Scouts, Young Folk Hold Woodstock Service

Woodstock, March 14—Scout investment services and a young people's service were held in the Dutch Reformed Church on Sunday evening. The services were in charge of Richard Bronson, a prayer was given by Katherine Bollin, and a Scripture reading by Doris Dock. Fred Toms conducted the service of investment for the incoming scouts. He welcomed them into the organization and called on Assistant Scoutmaster Carson Hutchins to conduct the candle lighting ceremony. The electric lights were turned out and Mr. Hutchins lit the three large candles, reciting the Scout Oath as he did so. He then called on the boy scout troop to light the 12 small candles as they each recited one of the scout laws. The scouts who recited the laws were Robert Hastie, Stephen Todd, Billy Drinkman, Doudph Baumgarten, Ludwig Baumgarten, Richard Bunney, Jack Peacock, Willard Wilbur, Perry Frankling and Warren Rieley. The new recruits were then called upon to receive their badges, and to present scout pins to their mothers, if present. Mrs. R. J. Lapo and Mrs. G. Schrader were present to receive pins. New scouts accepted at the ceremony were Vernard Hjalund, Billy West, Victor Lapo, and Arthur Schrader.

The title and insignia of Five Year Veteran Scout was presented to Richard Bronson, Jr., assistant scoutmaster, by the troop's scoutmaster, Harvey I. Todd. A service star for a year's service was given to Perry Frankling.

The evening's address was given by R. G. Burns, scout executive. Mr. Burns spoke on the qualities of a good scout, and described the importance to modern youth of training in the following fields. Good health; educa-

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You like books by Charles G. Norris? Or Phillip Guadalupe? You like Western Stories? Or Weird Tales, or Short Stories? You like Somerset Maugham, or Sinclair Lewis, or Daphne Du Maurier, the English woman who wrote "Rebecca"?

There is a sector in Manhattan known as Rockefeller's 12 acres. That's Rockefeller Center, associated usually as a theatrical and broadcasting center.

But it is also probably the most important publishing center in the world. It would be impossible to estimate the millions of copies of magazines of every description, from pulp westerns to glazed architectural forums, that go out of here every week. Literally tons of literature is packed out by truck and placed on ships, trains and planes. One magazine's aggregate circulation alone is well over 10,000,000 copies a month. You add up the others and the total is so staggering as to be incredible.

IT IS from here that books by some of the world's most widely-read authors emanate. Edna Ferber, Hugh Walpole, Booth Tarkington, Rudyard Kipling, Phillip Gibbs, T. E. Lawrence, Kenneth Roberts ("Northwest Passage," etc.), and Selma Lagerlof are all authors whose books spread far over the world from Mr. Rockefeller's 12 acres in Manhattan.

The curious point to all this publishing activity is that the route of the books is very little of it. You pass through Rockefeller Center and you see shops and stores, broadcasting studios and newsreel theaters, and vast towering buildings in which all activities known

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Inside Out

Nashville, Tenn.—When they couldn't open the rear door of a patrol wagon in which another officer and a drunken prisoner arrived at police station, two officers went to work with a crowbar, a hammer and a screwdriver. They got the door off at the hinges—then found that the door latch worked perfectly from the inside.

Jury's Prudence

Lancaster, Pa.—A jury in a liquor law violations case was told by the district attorney that Chester Eckert, one of four persons indicted, was ill and would be tried later.

The judge, in charging the jurors, repeated that Eckert was home in bed—and not on trial.

The jury retired, acquitted one defendant and convicted the other three—including Eckert.

The startled judge ordered Eckert's name stricken from the verdict.

Two of a Kind

Salt Lake City—Two motorists with identical names, charged with the same offense and arrested the same day at the same place by the same officer, each paid $25 to the city.

Edwin Hansen No. 1, 24, and Edwin Hansen No. 2, 20, were arrested Sunday at 21st South and 14th East by Patrolman G. H. Volkert for driving 50 miles an hour. Hansen No. 1 forfeited $25 bond; Hansen No. 2 paid $25 fine.

Flirtatious Abe

Oklahoma City—If Abe Lincoln winks at you from a $5 bill, beware.

John Osborn, secret service agent, says that if he does the bill is phony. The counterfeiters forgot to put a pupil in his right eye.

Sing and Dance Honoring Dead Is Celebes Custom

Typical of such dances in Celebes is the so-called "madong madong," meaning literally to sing mourning songs for the dead. In this dance, writes Claire Holt in Asia Magazine, men form a circle and, while chanting in solemn chorus words of lament or praise for the deceased, slowly stretch and bend the knees, occasionally making a step sideways. One hand is laid on the shoulder of the next dancer and the other arm, bent at the elbow, is slowly brought forward and then extended sideways to the rhythm of the song. This dance is usually executed in front of the house where the corpse is lying and, later, at the place where the sacrificial bulls are being slaughtered—for slaughtering of bulls is one of the most important features of all big Toradja celebrations. The higher the rank of the person who died, the greater the number of slaughtered bulls.

Death festivities offer to the younger people many opportunities for developing their art of dancing and singing, since guests coming to the house of mourning have to be welcomed and entertained. Little troupes of dancers specialize in such dance forms. For example, there is the ma-marakka, sung and danced by boys and girls, in two rows, to the accompaniment of two long flutes, for the consolation of the relatives of the departed one and the entertainment of the guests gathered at his house.

'Police' Dogs Must Be Trained

A dog of any breed is a police dog when trained for police work. The German shepherd, long used for police work in Europe, is commonly known as the police dog in spite of the fact that the Labrador retriever has been proved by the only tests ever conducted on a practical and extensive basis to be the best breed for police work. For some reason black German shepherds are commonly referred to improperly as Belgian shepherds. There is, however, a Belgian sheepdog which is rarely seen in this country. It may be black, but not necessarily so, and either long-haired or short-haired. It is a smaller dog than the German shepherd.

Bridged City on 90 Islands

It is difficult to imagine why anyone should have selected the present site of Amsterdam for a metropolis. In the beginning the dam on which Gysbrecht II, Lord of Amstel, built his castle, was a dike almost entirely surrounded by gray ooze slashed with tidal rivulets. Now Amsterdam stands on 90 islands, connected by about 300 bridges, and separated by innumerable canals which are landscaped and regulated with all the exquisite perfection of the waterways of exhibition grounds.

ACHING COLDS

Relieve Their DISTRESS This Easy, Quick Way!

To bring speedy relief from the discomfort of chest colds, muscular rheumatic aches and pains due to colds—you need more than "just a saline"—use a stimulating "counter-irritant" like good old warming, soothing Musterole. It penetrates the surface skin breaking up local congestion and pain resulting from colds. Even better than a mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for over 30 years. Women Organize New Cancer Drive

Under the seal of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, hundreds of women are now organizing in the third nationwide campaign to reduce cancer mortality through education. The seal has just been adopted officially by the Women's Field Army.

The seal, reproduced above, centers on the sword which has long been used as the insignia of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. The sword, which tests firmly on the "Women's Field Army" which has become the most important educational arm of the society. Behind the sword a sun rises over a mountainous horizon, suggesting the dawn of a day of hope. The rays of the sun are bordered by the title "American Society for the Control of Cancer," emphasizing the fact that the educational program is prepared and directed by authorities on cancer. "Fight Cancer with Knowledge" completes the educational emblem under which the Army works.

The sword has been used for 16 years as a symbol of American Society for the Control of Cancer. The serpents, adapted from the caduceus or wand of Mercury, symbol of the medical profession, indicates the dominant role physicians play in the work of the American Society.

"This seal," declares Miss D. Eleanor Easton, captain of Ulster county, "tells the story of the Women's Field Army. The sword with the caduceus is the symbol of the medical truth that shall make us free from blind fear and lead us to a better understanding of cancer."

Has New Carnation

Troy (AP)—The thrill which comes once in a lifetime was experienced by Florist John E. Sambrook when he discovered in his greenhouse a new, deep pink carnation which may bring him upwards of $10,000 and untold prestige in his business. Sambrook, one of the oldest members of the Troy Rotary Club, has named the flower "The Rotarian." Difficulties in its breeding have involved such items as a horse stepping on one of the only two plants showing the flowers. The money will come from the sale of cuttings to other florists.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning! Wake Up Your Liver Bile!

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up in your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get that two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "top and up." Warm, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores, 10¢ and 25¢.

New Paltz Alumni Association Luncheon

(Official Report)

March 11—The Alumni Association of the State Normal School, held its luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria, New York city. When the committee arrived and was graciously greeted by "Oscar of the Waldorf," our very good friend and neighbor, we knew that nothing would be lacking in any respect, to make our luncheon even more delightful than former ones. We are all aware that only through the kindness and friendship of Mr. Tschirky are we able to have our luncheon at the Waldorf.

The luncheon was held on the Starlight Roof. The Spring flowers, a courtesy of Mr. Tschirky, make this room most attractive.

Three hundred and forty-five tickets were sold, representing 47 classes from 1889-1939. The alumni were pleased to meet several former teachers. The Hon. William R. Ward of Trenton, N. J., member of the state legislature, Miss Julia Linsley of Flushing, N. Y.; Mrs. Eugene Helyea of New Paltz, N. Y.; and Miss Emily Liebergold of Montgomery, N. Y. The spirit of goodwill and fellowship was apparent from the beginning to the end, and each one was more than happy that he had come.

As soon as we were seated, "Oscar of the Waldorf," gave us a warm, wholesome and friendly greeting. His hospitality and sincere welcome made us feel that he was truly as pleased to have us at the Waldorf as we were to be there. He extended a cordial invitation for the 1941 meeting.

A most delicious luncheon was served. Everyone was busy enjoying the stuffed tomato with crab-meat and shrimps, breast of chicken, ice cream, etc. Only praise has been heard for this most delectable food. Visiting and singing were enjoyed between courses.

The president gave the association a cordial and hearty welcome. He spoke of the interest and the loyalty of each one to his former classmates and to his alma mater. He had occasion to be thankful for several things: free assembly, free speech, and the presence of four members of the class of 1889, who were celebrating their 50th anniversary. They were Mrs. John U. Gillette, graduated Ella Du Bois; Mrs. Warren Hasbrouck, graduated Mabel Hareout; Miss Emma Hall and Miss Mary De Witt. Mrs. Roberts, wife of Timothy Roberts, who was supervisor of music in 1889, was a guest. It was an honor and a privilege to have Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Bouton present. Dr. Bouton was the first principal of the Normal School. He brought a photograph of the first Normal School building, 1886, and presented it to the association. It is a rare gift, for which the alumni is most appreciative. The graduates of 1889 and guests were seated at the speaker's table and were heartily applauded when they acknowledged their introduction. Everyone present felt that these graduates have built a firm foundation for the alma mater, and deserve the honor and esteem so freely given to them.

The second speaker was the president of the class of 1939, an able and outstanding member of his class, Charles Helmes. He thanked the Alumni Association for making loans available for deserving students. He said that the class of 1939 is the last large class to graduate, and has 225 members. He hoped it would be remembered for its size, accomplishments, personalities and contribution to the school. He spoke of the N. Y. A. and its benefit to the class of 1939. It is interesting to know that following a recent study, it was found that the N. Y. A. group has the second highest rating in the school, thus proving that the N. Y. A. money is being used to good advantage.

Most ardently he suggested that there are 225 seniors ready for jobs, that help and suggestions from the Alumni would be gratefully received.

Dr. Lawrence H. van den Berg, principal, spoke on "Present Status of Teacher-Training Institutions of New York State." As always his talk was most interesting and vital. He explained that the state is limiting the registration of all normal schools to 500 students, thereby cutting the number of each class. All students must take an entrance examination. The examination for New Paltz entrants will be held in May, 1939, at New Paltz, Kingston, Yonkers and Paterson.

He could report nothing definite concerning the teachers college bill now pending before the legislature.

There is to be a summer session at both New Paltz and Troy. The fourth year courses will be included in the program, thus giving the three year graduate an opportunity to get certification for his fourth year.

Appropriations for new buildings, a library, a gymnasium, an auditorium and a student's social center, form the basis of a capital outlay plan, which is to be woven into a general set up for all the normal schools of the state.

He paid tribute to the late Bruyn Hasbrouck, a member of the board of visitors. Mr. Hasbrouck was ever mindful and ready to help in anything that was for the benefit of the Normal School. Most fittingly he mentioned the men who were members of the board of visitors when he began his work in New Paltz, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Frank J. LeFevre and Albert K. Smiley.

Judge Hasbrouck has been instrumental in making the State Normal School of New Paltz a member of the New York State Historical Society.

The meeting was closed by singing the alma mater.

MAUD S. RICHARDS,
Secretary of the State Normal School of New Paltz, Alumni Association.

75th Birthday

Mrs. James H. Duffy of 34 Purcell street was the guest of honor Saturday evening when 30 of her relatives and friends assembled to help her celebrate her 75th birthday. The morning mail brought a shower of birthday cards, with flowers and telegrams following throughout the day. At 10:30 a grand march was formed and led by Mrs. Duffy and her son, Bernard, to the dining room where a buffet supper was served. The table was most attractive with its bowls of roses and tall candles. In the center rested a large birthday cake. With the cutting of the cake by Mrs. Duffy the guests all sang Happy Birthday. As the guests departed best wishes for many more happy birthdays were bestowed upon Mrs. Duffy.

Dental Hygienist Now Available for Port Ewen

A meeting of the Public Health Nursing committee of the town of Esopus was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. G. W. Ross, Port Ewen. A report was given of the successful card party held in February to raise funds for the work.

It was decided to purchase larger scales for the baby clinic. An interesting talk was given by Miss M. Ploss, Public Health Nurse. She mentioned that the work accomplished by the health committee of the town of Esopus has inspired other townships to organize similar committees. She presented several suggestions for further projects the committee could undertake. Miss Ploss announced that the services of a dental hygienist are now available at the infant and pre-school clinic held in Port Ewen. These services comprise cleaning the teeth of pre-school children and pointing out defects.

Noted Psychologist Speaks to Women

Dr. Elizabeth H. Morris, professor of psychology at the New York State Teachers' College in Albany, spoke at length on the topic "Growing Up" at the regular meeting of the Kingston College Women's Club last night. Dr. Morris explained that the problem of growing up was easily solved by gradually adding responsibility.

Important in growing up are two problems. The first is how to develop genuine common sense in a young person and the second, how to encourage a constructive attitude instead of just a passive one. The best way to solve these problems is to make the individual learn to look at life as a whole. By doing this one grows in wisdom and sympathetic understanding and not in the acquisition of knowledge but the application of that knowledge for the benefit of society as a whole.

Several cases of retarded and maladjustment studied by Dr. Morris were reviewed and in each case the speaker stated the difficulties these students faced and what had been done to help them conquer their problems.

The first need in life is to select a purpose and to develop a sense of values to which one may hold with conviction and loyalty. The second is to develop stability and poise and learn to depend on a set of probabilities rather than a group of preconceived certainties. In concluding Dr. Morris quoted one of the newer books on psychology, saying, "To grow up means to learn again from the ground up and to continue to learn."

A short business meeting preceded the address at which Mrs. John L. MacKinnon named the nominating committee. Those on the committee are Mrs. Charles Arnold, chairman; Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre and Miss Agnes Scott Smith.

Following the meeting and address, a social hour was held at which time refreshments were served. Fuller, Mrs. Robert Haley, Mrs. Cornelius Hardenbergh, Mrs. Ashton Hart, Mrs. William Hasbrouck, Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, Miss May Quimby, Mrs. Thomas Plunkett, Mrs. Thomas L. Educators Studied By Lowell Club

The regular meeting of the Lowell Club was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. James J. Murphy, Jr. The paper for the afternoon was prepared by Miss Annabelle Quimby and read in her absence by the hostess.

Miss Quimby's paper discussed a study of American educators elected to the Hall of Fame. Two great New England contemporaries in education, Horace Mann, who reorganized the complete educational system in Massachusetts, and former president of Williams College, Mark Hopkins, were reviewed.

Dr. Mann is credited with guiding Antioch College in the first years of its existence serving as its president for six years till his death in 1859. Dr. Hopkins in addition to his presidency of Williams College, taught philosophy and was pastor of historic Williamstown Congregational Church. After his retirement from the presidency he continued to teach philosophy and preach in the old church. In 1887 he died and of the 1760 graduates of Williams College all but 30 had been taught by the great educator, Dr. Hopkins.

The round table for the afternoon was devoted to great women in education. Mrs. William Longo, year gave an account of the life and career of Emma Willard, founder of Troy and Mrs. James Gutridge, president of Mt. Holyoke College. Mrs. Orlando D. B. Ingalls reviewed the career of Alice Freeman Palmer and her work at Wellesley College. Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Margaret Conklin.

The regular meeting of the Sorosis was held at the home of Mrs. William McVey on Tremper avenue Monday afternoon. A resolution of approval concerning the Todd-Stagg bill, that would regulate the placing of billboards, was sent to Senator and Assemblyman from this district.

Following the business meeting the paper for the day was presented by Mrs. Harry Millonig; the topic for discussion being "The Arts at the World Fair." Mrs. Millonig went back through the years to the first fair of which there is any record. The first was held in the year 427 A. D. The world fair that will open in the near future combines all of the various ideas formerly tried in previous fairs in the United States. The first fair in which the grounds were actually planned was the Chicago Fair in 1893 and the Buffalo Fair in 1901 followed stressing a color scheme. In 1904 the St. Louis Fair was held, featuring fountains and large pieces of sculpture. In closing the afternoon's discussion Mrs. Millonig quoted H. G. Wells, "It is best not to regard it as a show of things but a collection of ideas and let your imagination off the leash of discretion. The realities of tomorrow lurk in the world fair and we must learn to accept them." Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. George Styles.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, ditty spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calm, use literary nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Dairy Leaders Plan Talk With Farmers

the milk price situation, Albert Kurt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, said this morning that he felt that the general public did not understand fully that the maintenance of a fair price for milk was of as much importance to the public as was to the producer. "If the purchasing power of the dairyman of the state is cut in half, business of all kinds—the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker—will be slowed up to a serious degree," said Mr. Kurt. He added that the average income from milk throughout the state was around $150,000,000 a month and that it was easy to figure what cutting that income in half would mean to the business of the state as a whole. If the price of milk breaks, as is to be expected, more than the dairyman will suffer, he said.

Mr. Kurt said also that a drop in the price of fluid milk is not of as much benefit to the consumer of bottled milk as many seem to believe. "Bottled milk is only about half, or less than half, of the total fluid milk supply," he said. "Milk sold at wholesale to stores, restaurants, etc., accounts for nearly half of the total supply."

HITLER TROOPS MARCH EASTWARD

This map shows how Germany's troops began moving into crushed Czechoslovakia at Leitmeritz and Moravská-Ostrava, and then raced eastward from the latter point toward the country's easternmost province, Carpatho-Ukraine. Meanwhile Hungarians moved into Carpatho-Ukraine 100 casualties being reported in the vicinity of Chust. Augustin Volosin, former premier of the latter province, indicated he would offer resistance to troops, but apparently he had no forces at his disposal. Map shows the dismemberment of the nation in the last year.

HITLER MAKES MORE HISTORY

This radio picture, transmitted from Berlin to New York shows the historic meeting of Chancellor Hitler and Dr. Joseph Tiso on the night of March 13, just before the collapse of Czechoslovakia. At this conference, in Berlin, Dr. Tiso won a promise of military aid from Hitler, if necessary, in seeking independence for Slovakia. Subsequently he became first premier of the new Slovak republic.

Four Communities Ask Conway Bill Pass Legislature

day afternoon, to ask legislative adoption of a bill of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway of Kingston, designed to furnish a "breathing spell" until 1944, for communities along the Hudson river who have been ordered by the State Health Department to proceed with construction of sewage disposal plants, and to cease alleged pollution of the river.

Last week, Mayor Conrad J. Heisselman, of Kingston urged similar action by the committee. Under the Conway bill, discharge of city sewage into waters of the Hudson river shall not be unlawful or be required to be discontinued prior to January 1, 1944. At the present time, orders have been issued by the State Health Department to Kingston and several other communities in the Hudson valley, directing cessation of pollution of the Hudson river by January 1, 1940.

Also under discussion at the committee hearing, was a bill sponsored by Assemblyman James E. Owens of Ossining, which provides that an order of the State Health Department to a municipiality, corporation or person responsible for water pollution, directing discontinuance of the pollution shall not be valid until the legislature appropriates a sum sufficient to permit the State to share 50 per cent of the cost to the municipality.

Mayor Spratt of Poughkeepsie, speaking before the committee, urged its members to report out and secure passage for the Conway bill and also, if possible, the Owens measure.

"No one is more enthusiastic than I am for eventual purification of the Hudson river," said Mayor Spratt.

The present orders of the State Health Department, the mayor contended, are "arbitrary," although in 1929, when the then State Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Parian wrote the communities to be ready for sewage disposal plants by 1940, the orders were "reasonable."

"I am in favor of purification of the Hudson river at a time when municipalities can do it without cramping their debt margin," Mayor Spratt said, adding that he could not see why the city of Poughkeepsie should be driven to bankruptcy in order to comply with an order that was reasonable at the time it was issued, but which has since become "arbitrary."

James G. Meyer, of Beacon, asserted that the matter of contamination of the Hudson river, so far as the State Health Department is concerned, "is a lot of bunk."

He pleaded that action on the sewage plants be deferred until 1944, at which time Beacon may be able to finance its plant.

Col. Rafael Egan, representing Newburgh, asserted that his municipality's debt limit would be exceeded if it were compelled to go ahead with construction of a sewage plant.

"It is utterly impossible to contemplate construction of a plant at this time," he said. It is estimated the Newburgh plant will cost $850,000.

William F. Stanton, of Newburgh also went on record in favor of the Conway bill, and cited the city's financial inability to comply with the state health department's order for a sewage plant.

Chetster Smith of Peekskill, representing Mayor Miles J. Holley of Peekskill, asked a favorable report by the committee on the Owens bill.

"I should like to establish a principle of state aid for sewage disposal," Smith declared.

He took the position that the Hudson river is a state and federal waterway, and is of benefit to the state as a whole, not only to those bordering it.

"Therefore, the state should help in the cost of constructing any plants," he continued.

It is estimated the Peekskill plant will cost $400,000.

Settlement Made In Three Cases

Three actions were announced settled in Supreme Court this morning at the opening of the session, but no case was ready for trial. Justice Schirck warned attorneys that unless a case was soon ready for trial he would not continue to bring the jurors back at added expense to the county.

A recess was taken until 10 o'clock Thursday morning when an action on contract brought by Andrew M. Ronk against Dr. H. A. Benson will be moved Michael Nardone, appearing for the plaintiff, stated that counsel for defense, William A. Mulvey, was engaged in Federal court but had promised to be ready for trial Thursday morning. Unless the defendant is ready at that time he said he would take a default judgment.

An action for personal injuries and property damage brought by Edward Bowerhan against George F. Hellick Coffee Company and another, was announced settled.

Two actions brought by William C. Hussey and Anna B. Hussey, were announced settled by Judge Harry H. Flemming. Louis L. Resnick appeared for defendants, the Columbia Cab Corporation.

The day calendar for tomorrow is made up of 19 cases.

been 692 loads of ashes and rubbish taken up, and the miles traveled by the trucks was 1,975.

Up until the present snow storm there had been 1,837 loads of snow and ice removed from the streets.

The city trucks had conveyed 373 loads to the incinerator and 296 to the dumps, a total of 669 loads, while private trucks had conveyed 417 loads to the incinerator, and 277 to the dumps, a combined total of 1,362 truck-loads.

The report stated that inspection is made daily of all traffic lights, and that signals and safety zones are painted once a year and oiled every three months.

During February 59 sewers had been flushed and 59 catch basins cleaned as well as 184 manholes. Sewers in all sections of the city to the number of 35 had been rodded.

Work on WPA Projects
City Engineer Norton, who has charge of the city's supervision of the WPA projects, submitted a report which showed that there had been 192 feet of 6-inch water line laid in Trenton street, 304 feet of 6-inch line in Lucas avenue, 48 feet of 6-inch line in Van Gassbeck street, and 112 feet of 8-inch line in Wood street.

Sewer lines laid included: East Chester street, Broadway to Jansen avenue, 163 feet of 24-inch combined sewer; Clifton avenue, 74 feet of 18-inch storm water sewer; Clifton avenue, 211 feet of 24-inch storm water sewer, and Cummings street, 50 feet of 18-inch storm water sewer.

Glen street, Deyo street, Mountain View avenue and Sylvester and Cassidy streets had been graded.

On the addition to the city laboratory the excavation had been completed and concrete placed in the column footings and the wall forms had been built.

The WPA had also erected a wall on Hooker street and finished one on Hemlock avenue.

At the Kingston Municipal Stadium there had been 57 cubic yards of concrete poured on the last day, and four cubic yards of concrete had been used on foundation of inside walls. There had been 30 cubic yards of excavation for inside foundation removed and 1,500 bricks were laid in place. There had been 120 seat brackets completed and two yards of concrete used in the steps. The board audited bills and then adjourned.

MAKE A NEW PANELLED FROCK!

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9004

Here's the front-fulness silhouette that the most up-to-date young women are adopting. ... and Marian Martin gives it a very fresh, new glamour in Pattern 9004! Another point—it's made quickly and easily, for there are few pieces, and the Sew Chart directions are really helpful! There are only two pattern parts to the front, with the soft panel held in by a narrow belt or corset girdle. If you want a particularly dramatic effect, have the panel in plain color with the frock in a gay print. (It is equally chic in the same color and fabric as the rest of the dress!) The pretty sleeves may have their puff caught into a slash—or they may be open.

Pattern 9004 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 11, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards ruffling.

Send this plain card in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Send today for the very popular MARIAN MARTIN BOOK OF SPRING PATTERNS! You can solve ALL your spring sewing problems as you look it over from cover to cover. Clock Aids Cause

Schenectady (AP)—A "clock" is helping this city cut its automobile injury and death rate. The clock doesn't keep time—it shows a visible record of the city's injuries and deaths from automobile accidents. An 8-foot, semi-circular instrument, located at a prominent downtown street intersection, it has two hands, one for injuries and one for deaths.

In many areas of the United States at least 50 per cent of the farm homes are without running water.

Home Service Do You Have to Guess About Your Etiquette?

You're Judged by Your Manners

Mrs. Brown makes a charming impression on her new neighbors—but what will they think of Mr. Brown's manners? He fails to tip his hat when Mr. Tono raises his in greeting to Mrs. Brown.

True, Mr. Brown hasn't met Mr. Tono, but a man should always raise his hat when his woman companion is greeted by another man or woman.

Simple to learn such points of etiquette—but how important they are in making contacts!

After chatting with some delightful person you've just met, do you wonder who should express pleasure at the introduction—The man or the girl? The man should say "I'm glad to have met you." The girl replies with a smiling "I hope we shall meet again soon," or just a pleasant "Thank you."

When telephoning, it's incorrect to ask to whom you're speaking, before you've given your own name. When a servant is at fault, it's bad form to criticize her in the presence of guests.

Be sure of yourself—in public, when entertaining at home. Our 32-page booklet gives correct etiquette for you and your family—when travelling and visiting at dances and the theatre, on the street, at the country club.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of ETIQUETTE: THE CORRECT THING TO DO. The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Rosa, Cox, Van Alstyne Pinter, Horton Matched For Bouts Here Friday

Moore, Speary, Robinson, Dulgarian, Jones Winners

New York, March 15 (AP)—The butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker weren't represented on the Daily News Golden Gloves list of eight champions today, but seven other trades, all the way from aviator to barber, were.

The punching-youngsters, looking toward Chicago for more action, were sole survivors of a starting field of 16,000 battlers from Maine to Florida. The eight who won titles before a crowd of 15,735 in Madison Square Garden last night in the "Tournament of Champions" banded together as an eastern team to meet the western squad in the Windy City March 29.

Cage Tournament In Madison Square

New York, March 15 (AP)—Four teams who thought so highly of the little tournament sponsored by the New York Basketball Writers' Association that they chose to play in it rather than in national tournaments of more impressive size, met in the first round at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The four, picked for color and skill and lined up to make the invitation event national in scope are Long Island University and St. John's of Brooklyn, representing the metropolitan district with two of the east's strongest squads, Roanoke College of Salem, Va., and New Mexico State.

Tonight's opening games pit unbeaten L. I. U. against the New Mexico Cowboys, three-year champions of the Border Conference, and the St. John's Redmen against Roanoke's "Five Smart Boys."

Power Boat Men Meet Thursday

The newly organized Power Boat Association will meet Thursday night at Fischer's Casino on Abert street. There will be an important business discussion, starting at 8 o'clock.

Other business scheduled includes election of officers and matters pertaining to the races during the summer. Chairman Frank Mower urges a full attendance of members, and invites all interested in the water sport to be at the meeting.

Dartball Postponed

The star dart ball game that was to be held in the Ramsey Memorial building on Elmendorf street on Friday evening will not be played, but the date will be announced later. The plan was to select the star player from each of the teams playing in the Dart Ball League of the Federation of Men's Clubs of the city.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)
Lakeland, Fla.—Manager Del Baker has been receiving compliments from all observers on the way he's getting the Detroit Tigers into condition, but some of those from his players are a little left-handed. After one of the long, hard workouts, Boots Pfefferberger remarked: "I'm glad they don't have arc lights in this park." And Vern Kennedy added: "It gets kind of monotonous after the first ten hours."

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Don Padgett, the outfielder the St. Louis Cardinals are trying to convert into a catcher, probably will be on the sidelines about ten days as a result of one of his early efforts behind the plate. He dislocated a shoulder yesterday as the Cards were taking a 10-2 thumping from Cincinnati.

Clearwater, Fla.—Since that no-hit loss to the Reds the other day, the Brooklyn Dodgers aren't boasting about their hitting, but they can't seem to get some pride in the pitching they have had in Grapefruit League games. In 37 innings, so far, the Dodger mound staff has allowed only 35 hits, given 15 walks and hit two batters.

Pasadena, Calif.—Southpaw Thornton Lee, of the Chicago White Sox, apparently tried to get around too soon on the ankle he injured a week ago. After watching him a while, Trainer Al Schacht ordered him on the shelf for a few days more. Meanwhile Luke Appling's heavy hitting has earned him the cleanup spot at least for the present.

Baton Rouge, La.—The newcomers to the New York Giants from Chicago and way points are having some novel experiences as Bill Terry follows John McGraw's methods of drilling on defensive play. To Zeke Bonura it's a source of constant amazement. Says Zeke, "It beats all how those plays unravel themselves when you've got somebody to show you how it's done."

Tampa, Fla.—Babe Dahlgren apparently is stuck for another year as an all-around handy man with the New York Yankees. He used to sub for Jimmy Fox at Boston, then understudy Lou Gehrig. Now that he has been showing good form at third base, word comes that holdout Red Rolfe is on his way to camp.

Avalon, Cal.—Manager Cappy Hartnett has decided to try Steve Mesney, who has performed well in camp, at shortstop for the Cubs while Dick Bartell is absent. Bartell is laid up with an inflamed ankle and the physicians won't hazard a guess as to whether he'll be out a week or a month until he's been examined further at Hollywood Hospital.

Orlando, Fla.—The latest rumor to make the rounds in the Washington camp is that the Senators will trade Pithers Jimmy DeShong to Detroit for Ixioe Lawson. Both fingers had disappointing seasons last year and Del Baker of the Tigers is said to favor the deal.

San Bernardino, Calif.—Bob Klingner's arm trouble gave Pie Traynor of Pittsburgh a new worry today. The hurler, who has been taking it easy in training, told Traynor his arm hurt when he attempted to toss a curve. His arm bothered him a lot last year, but he managed to work in 28 games and won ten.

From the office of the Adirondack A. A. U. today came sanction for a card of boxing bouts Friday night, March 17, that looks like the best arranged for presentation in the auditorium ring this winter.

Featuring the bill are some of the best scrappers from the Crescent A. C., New York city, matched against Mickey Barbo's Birmingham ring aces from upstate.

On the top there's a five round pairing between Danny Cox, New York Golden Gloves winner this year in the 160-pound class, and Gene Pinter, Philadelphia champion of two years ago, who is now in the Barbo stable.

Pinter has been gunning for Danny, and says that he wants Bradley Lewis after he whips him. Cox has his own opinion of this match, and promises that he'll come out on the satisfactory end of the decision.

Cox has a glowing record as an amateur, having to his credit victories over the cream of the sport pure crop. Last summer he knocked out Cozy Storaice in Troy, the boy who distinguished himself last week by defeating none other than Hurd Alexander of Albany, who has his direction turned toward the pro ring.

Another fiver sharing the spotlight with the Cox-Pinter match is that bringing together Manuel Rosa of New York and Bobby Smith, another Birmingham belt. Rosa twice defeated the Newburgh ring ace, Carmine Patta, one of the most popular amateurs that ever duelled here, and who is a professional now.

Bobby Smith holds decisions over some of the best amateurs, including Steve Kukul, the lightweight who outpointed Willie Smith here last week, just before Willie appeared in Madison Square Garden where he was victorious. Ellis Bynder, another New York star, and Kenny Horton, Birmingham top-notch.

Red Van Alstyne, Ravenna, vs. Monk Armstrong, Kingston. Leo Sarinelli, Albany, vs. Jimmy Brown, Birmingham. Frankie Albright, Kingston vs. Archie Goodby, Albany.

Tony Garteck, Poughkeepsie, vs. Len Rubiletto, Albany. Regarding the Armstrong-Van Alstyne bout, the Ravenna middleweight is anxious to score a decision over Monk. He wants to turn pro and is desirous of challenging one up against the local slugger to whom he lost the Adirondack Diamond Belt title and then bowed to him in a special match.

Indications are that the card will be packed with action from the opening scrap at 9 o'clock until the finale.

Cleaners Defeat Artillery 39 to 17

Last night at the 156th Field Artillery Armory, the Boston Cleaners of the City League trounced the basketball team of Headquarters Battery, 39-17, thus accomplishing a feat that three other league quintets failed to achieve.

The Elks, Knights of Columbus and Forsts had bowed to the Artillerymen, but last night the story was a different one. Every and Silverberg led the Boston scorers and Ten Broeck the Soldiers.

Tonight the soldiers will play the Kingston Stars, a team made up from the disbanded players of the high school varsity. Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock.

The Sieve, a Waterfall
"The Sieve," just outside Uruapan in the state of Michoacan, Mexico, doesn't fall over rocks. It sifts through the volcanic basalt dike in a thousand small waterfalls that catch the sun's light, refract it, and crown the boiling waters below with a shimmering rainbow. Points at which the Sieve's waters break through the rock are from 30 to 150 feet above the basin.

Tidal Influence of the Sun
There are several islands in the South Pacific, notably Tahiti, where the tidal influence of the sun equals or exceeds that of the moon. Consequently, observes a writer in Collier's Weekly, these tides come and go at approximately the same hours instead of having the daily 50-minute retardation that occurs in most of the world.

Sportsmen's Club To Hold Banquet

The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county will hold a special meeting March 21. The meeting is called in celebration of National Wildlife Week, the week of March 19-25, which by proclamation of President Roosevelt has been set aside as a week for observance of matters of conservation. The meeting will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel, where a turkey dinner will be served at 7 p. m.

In addition to the regular business session of the federation, an appropriate program has been arranged for the evening. The guest speaker will be the Hon. Lithgow Osborne, commissioner of conservation for the state of New York. The sportsmen of Ulster county feel highly honored in having Commissioner Osborne at this banquet meeting, and a large number have already indicated their intentions of being present to hear him.

Following Commissioner Osborne's address sound films on animal predator control and forest conservation will be shown. These pictures have been obtained from a private source and are highly recommended by members of the state conservation department, who are familiar with them.

Besides the regular membership of the federation, all interested sportsmen in Ulster county and vicinity are invited to attend the banquet. Reservations may be made with the president or secretary of any of the 15 Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county which are members of the federation.

Quigley Will Be Ready for Season

Kansas City, March 15 (AP)—Ernest Quigley, umpire in the National League 23 years, tossed aside his crutches today and said he would be in condition to open the baseball season.

Latest reports this morning on tonight's American League playoff at the auditorium between the Colonials and Jersey Reds were that reserved seats continued to sell at an encouraging rate and that President John J. O'Brien would be among those present at the game.

O'Brien was quoted as saying he wouldn't want to miss the game under any circumstances. He ordered four reserved seats—the best in the house. This has been the request from practically all who have purchased seats. And, the number of orders seemed to put the local committee in a happy frame of mind.

Talk among bleacher patrons indicated a rush for the more conservatively priced seats when the doors open at 7 o'clock.

From Barney Sedran, astute little manager of the Colonials, came the announcement that his players are anxious about winning the president's cup to add to their American League championship laurels, and will play their best brand of ball tonight.

"My gang is just as anxious to win for Kingston as the local fans are about seeing their favorites take the American League cup, and, as for myself—well, there could be no greater pleasure than to clean up all the laurels in the league."

By virtue of their prowess on the court, the Colonials, winning 28 out of 35 games, won the American League cup and the bonus of $1,000 offered to the team finishing in first place. Now there remains that series of two out of three with the Jersey Reds, former world's champions, who finished third this season.

"Tonight the first game should show a lot of action at the auditorium, and Sunday's day, the second, should be a regular pepper box when it goes on at Columbia Park, Union City, N. J."

The Philadelphia Spuds, who finished in second place, will meet in a two-out-of-three game series with the New York Jewels, winners of fourth position. The first clash of this series takes place Saturday, March 18, at the Broadwood Hotel in Philadelphia, and on the following night, Sunday, March 19, the same two teams will appear at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn.

The eligible players are as listed:

Kingston—Johnson, Berenson, Pfeig, Kaplan, Fitzpatrick, Kinner, Reiser, N. Frankel.
Philadelphia Spuds—Kaselman, Wolfe, Rosen, Bloom, Lautman, Rosenberg, Goldman, Gottlieb.
Jersey Reds—Spahn, Rabin, Benson, Anderson, Adamo, T. O'Brien, Goldstein, Rosenfeld.

Referees—W. C. Solodore, P. Symon, L. Sugarman, P. Kennedy.

Borican, Lash To Run Tonight

Hanover, N. H., March 15 (AP)—Humanity's battle against time and distance, given new impetus when Glenn Cunningham raced his startling 4:04.4 indoor mile here last year, will be resumed with added force tonight when John Borican and Don Lash attempt the latest half-mile and two-miles in history on Dartmouth's now famous board track.

Both Borican and Lash appear assured of performing at least indoor record-breaking feats in their specialties. Before and after those stars, the mile and two-mile relay teams of New York University and Fordham, the fleetest quartets of the current indoor season, will attempt to reduce the indoor marks for those group events.

Dr. Hardenbergh Had Long Life-Time of Useful Service

The Rev. Jacob Rutten Hardenbergh, son of Col. Joannes Hardenbergh and Maria DuBois, was born at Rosendale, and baptized at Kingston, Ulster County, New York, February 22, 1736. He died at New Brunswick, N. J., October 30, 1790.

He studied at the Kingston Academy and prepared for the Gospel ministry with the Rev. John Frelinghuysen of Raritan, Somerset county, N. J. He was licensed by the American Classis or Coetus in 1757, and was the first minister in the Reformed Dutch Church in America, "who had not been obliged to go to Holland for the purpose of study, examination and licensure." May 1, 1758, he became pastor of the Reformed Churches of Raritan, Readington and Bedminster, in Somerset county, N. J. In 1781 he assumed the pastorate of the Reformed Church at Marbletown, Rochester and Wawarsing, in Ulster county, New York, and in 1785, of the First Reformed Church of New Brunswick, N. J., where he remained until his death in 1790.

During Important Era

His ministry while connected with his first pastoral charge continuing through a period of 25 years, embraced an important era of distracting controversy between the Coetus and Conference parties. While this controversy was taking place and during the year 1762 he made a voyage to Holland and made such a favorable impression there upon the Classis of Amsterdam that his influence did much toward securing the independence of the Reformed Churches of America.

After his return to this country, he was largely instrumental in securing a charter for Queens, now Rutgers College, and was one of the original trustees of the institution for the State of New Jersey. He was the first president of the college, and with only a single assistant in the college, he was "a teacher of the whole circle of the sciences and liberal arts."

During the conflict with Great Britain his record places him among the warmest friends of American liberty. An ardent patriot and a devoted friend of the Federal cause, he took no pains to conceal his opinions, and frequently "stirred up the people" through the pulpit ministrations of the sanctuary, arousing their enthusiasm and encouraging them in their determination to achieve their country's independence. His public zeal for his native land provoked the enmity of his Tory neighbors and endangered his life. The British general offered a reward of one hundred pounds for his apprehension. His peril was such that he was obliged to sleep with a loaded musket by the side of his bed, and was frequently compelled "to leave his home, fully armed and to roam about the country, to prevent his being seized by the Tories."

Within His Boundaries

While the Revolutionary struggle was in progress, the army of Washington was encamped, for two winters, within the bounds of the congregations to which Dr. Hardenbergh ministered. During one, if not both of these winters, Gen. Washington's headquarters were in the first house west of Dr. Hardenbergh's residence at Somerville, and the general frequently visited the doctor at his home, as a friend. Their mutual respect and kindly feeling, one towards the other, are clearly revealed by the correspondence with each other as follows:

"The Ministers, Elders and Deacons of the Reformed Church of Raritan—To General George Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the Armies of the United States of North America.

May it please your Excellency. "We, the Consistory of the Dutch Reformed Church of Raritan, beg leave to embrace this opportunity to declare to your Excellency the real sentiments of our hearts.

"As we would wish to adore the directing hand of Providence, so we are bound to acknowledge that spirit of patriotism which has induced your Excellency to sacrifice the sweets of an affluent domestic life, to put yourself and your most virtuous consort to repeated and affecting separations, for no other reason than defending the just rights and liberties of your bleeding country in the trying winter of 1777; when after two memorable victories, your Excellency by masterly strokes of generalship defended us with a handful of undisciplined militia, against the depredations of a formidable army of our enemies, collected and quartered in our vicinity. We cannot help admiring that gracious Providence which has made the success of victories of your arms to bare down the remembrance of discouraging disappointments, and we cordially hope that the agreeable prospect of a speedy termination of the present troubles, in favor of our distressed nation may fully answer your and our wishes and support your Excellency under the present weight of perplexing cares and concerns, inseparable from your station.

"Though the quartering of armies among citizens is always attended with unavoidable inconveniences to the latter, yet we are agreeable constrained to acknowledge, that your Excellency has been pleased to take particular care throughout this last winter, to prevent and alleviate these calamities as much as possible.

"Your Excellency's concern for the support of civil government in its just and equitable execution, has endeared you to our fellow citizens, and the strict discipline, which the gentlemen officers under your Excellency's more immediate command at this place, have observed not only at headquarters but also throughout the body of this army, we are persuaded, has merited the approbation and applause of the good people of this neighborhood.

"We beg your Excellency will do us the justice to believe us sincere, when we declare our affection and true regard for your person, and the deep sense we entertain of the important services your Excellency, and the gentlemen officers and soldiers under your command have rendered their country in the course of this severe contest; and we assure you, sir, that we shall deem it our duty and privilege to make our warmest addresses to the God of armies, for the preservation of your health and invaluable life; as also that of the brave officers and soldiers of your army, praying that indulgent Heaven may direct your counsels, and crown your exertion in the ensuing campaign with such victories and success, as shall compel a haughty, cruel and relentless enemy to consent, to the terms of a safe, honorable and lasting peace.

"Signed by order of the consistory, June 1, 1779.
"JACOB R. HARDENBERGH, V. D. M., Praes."

Washington's Response

In response to this cordial address, General Washington the next day, returned the following reply:

"To the Minister, Elders and Deacons of the Reformed Dutch Church at Raritan Camp Middlebrook, June 2d, 1779 Gentlemen:

"To meet the approbation of good men cannot but be agreeable. Your affectionate expressions make it more so. In quartering an army and supplying its wants, distress and inconvenience will often occur to the citizen. I feel myself happy in the consciousness that these have been strictly limited by necessity, and in your opinion of my attention to the rights of my fellow citizens. I thank you gentlemen sincerely for the sense you entertain of the conduct of the army, and for the interest you take in my welfare. I trust the goodness of the cause, and the exertions of the people, under the Divine protection will give us that honorable peace for which we are contending.

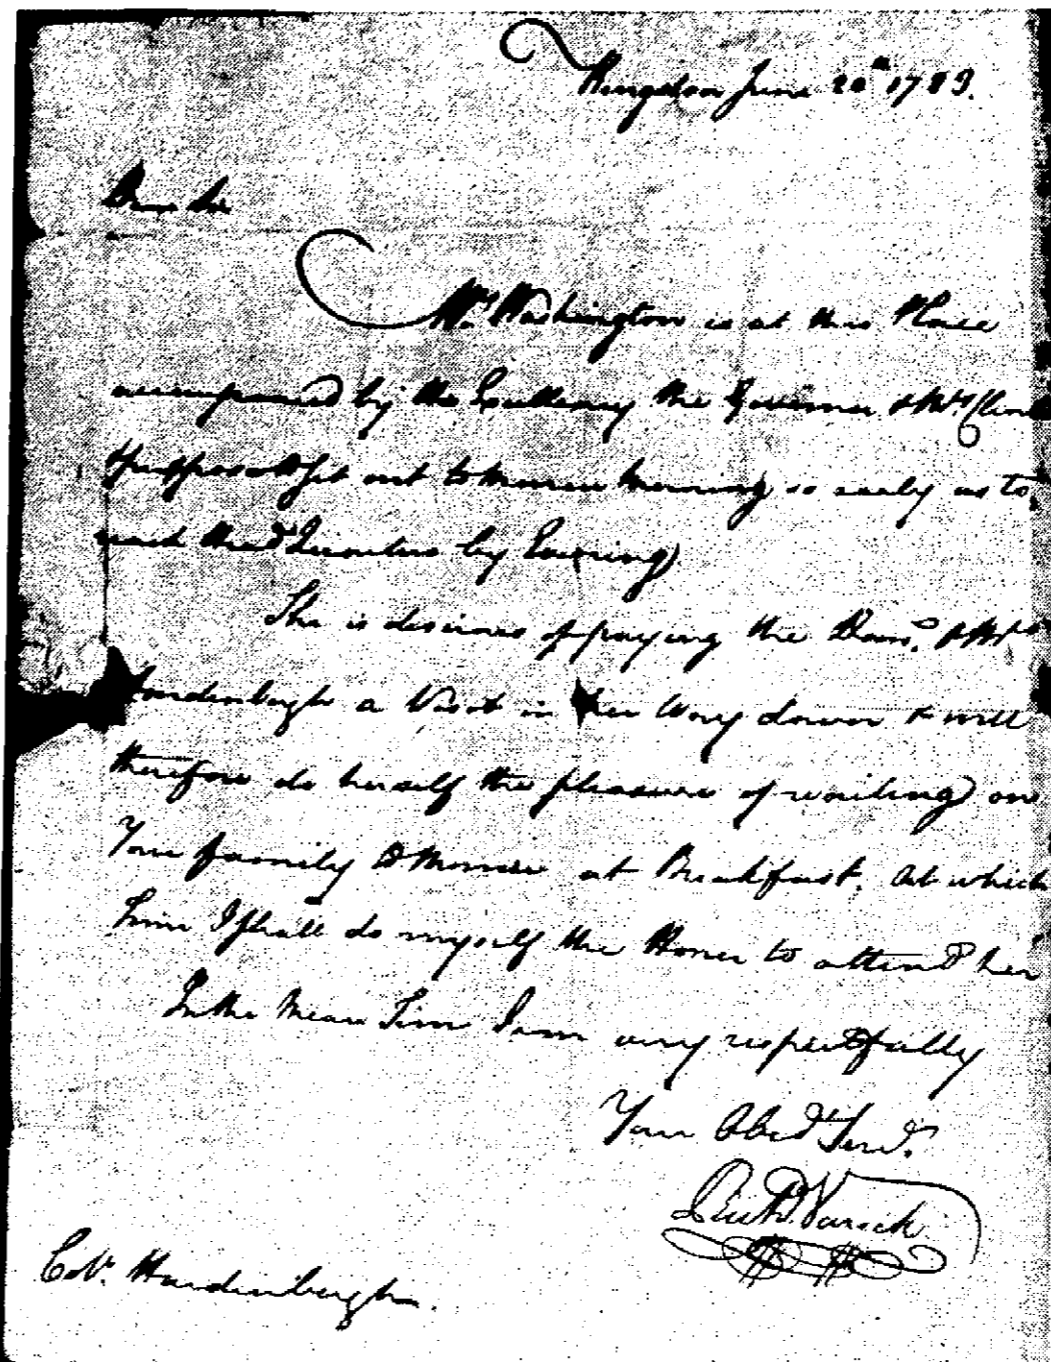

Suffer me gentlemen, to wish the Reformed Dutch Church at Raritan, a long continuance of its present Minister and Consistory, and all the blessings which flow from piety and religion.

I am, etc.

GEO. WASHINGTON.

In the Fall immediately following that exchange of courtesies between the Church of Raritan under the pastorate of Dr. Hardenbergh and the Commander-in-Chief of the Federal Army, October 26, 1779, a company of the Queen's Rangers, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Simcoe, made an incursion into Somerset County, for the purpose of burning some boats, which had been transported from the Delaware and were lying in the waters of the Raritan, near the Van Vechten's bridge, about a quarter of a mile from the Raritan Church, which stood on a knoll on the north side of the river, two miles below the present village of Somerville. But, not satisfied with accomplishing successfully their object, they also set fire to and burned the church edifice to the ground.

When Martha Washington Visited Rosendale

From the original manuscript contributed by Edward Coykendall.

This gracious note under the hand of Richard Varick, Washington's devoted friend and companion-in-arms, upon the occasion of the visit to Rosendale of America's "First Lady," is one of the gems of Colonial belles-lettres. No one can read its high-hearted courtly lines, penned during the dark hours of the struggle for freedom, without an enhanced appreciation of the social graces of those who once, long ago, called Rosendale "home."

The letter reads as follows:

Kingston June 20th 1789.

Dear Sir

Mrs. Washington is at this place accompanied by His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Clinton & purposes to set out tomorrow morning so early as to reach Head Quarters by Evening.

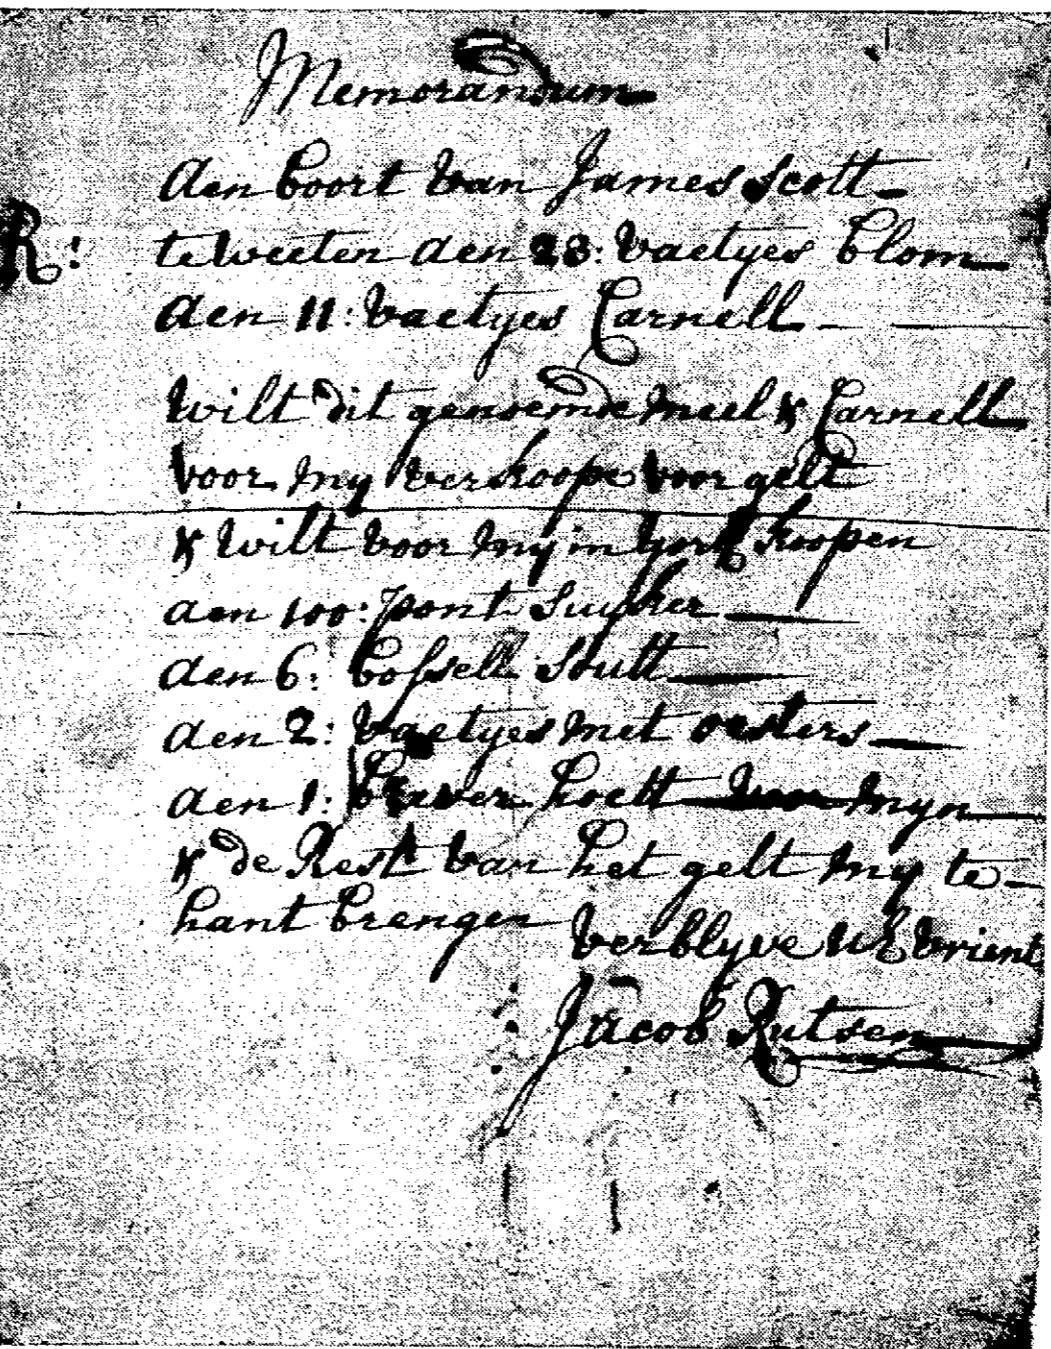

She is desirous of paying the Done, & Mrs. Hardenbergh a Visit in her way down & will therefore do herself the pleasure of waiting on Your family tomorrow at Breakfast, at which time I shall do myself the honor to attend her.

In the Mean Time I am very respectfully

Your Obedt Serv. Richd Varick

Col. Hardenbergh

Letter by Colonel Jacob Rutten

From the original manuscript, contributed by Mrs. Katherine Madden.

A letter in the Dutch language, addressed to James Scott, of Kingston, written and signed by Colonel Jacob Rutten, sturdy individualist of old Rosendale and the first settler. Head of the regiment of Ulster and Dutchess County troops for 20 years, Colonel Rutten was one of the richest and most powerful men of Dutch descent in America.

Early records show that on October 8, 1677, he purchased a tract of land "in a place called Rosendale," along the old Indian Trail that connected the Valley of the Hudson with the headwaters of the Delaware, and at the place where the Trail crossed the King's Highway, he built a stone dwelling. There, among the pleasant hills he loved so well, he lived until his death in 1730, and there, on the little knoll just south of the site of his old home, he sleeps—a doughty captain, in the eternal brouce of the brave.

The following translation of the memorandum by Col. Rutten was made by Prof. Adrian J. Barnouw, Professor of Dutch Language, Columbia University, New York city:

MEMORANDUM

On board (the ship of) James Scott, to wit, 23 barrels of flour, 11 barrels of cinnamon. Please sell the said flour and cinnamon for me for cash and buy for me in (New) York 100 pounds of sugar, 6 bushels of salt, 2 barrels of oysters, 1 beaver hat. The remainder of the money to be handed to me.

Remaining your friend,

JACOB RUTSEN

Hasbrouck Address Recalls Life of Esopus' Richest Man

The following are excerpts from an historical address delivered by the Hon. Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck at Rosendale on the occasion of the 250th anniversary of its founding. (From The Kingston Daily Freeman, November 11, 1935.)

Jacob Rutten of Ulster county was born in Albany, in 1650, the son of Rutger Jacobsen Van Schoenderwoert and Tryntje Jansse Van Brestede. She died at her son's residence in Rosendale in 1711. Rutger Jacobsen was a prominent man in Rensselaerwyck, being a magistrate there. He died in the year 1685.

In or about the year 1670, Jacob Rutten came to Kingston where he engaged in trade and prospered so that he was said to be the richest man in Esopus. His fortune was based largely upon purchases from the Indians.

Gov. Andross of the colony was arrested in Boston and Leisler was appointed by a committee of safety the county commander of the fort and thus governor of the province. With Leisler, Jacob Rutten sympathized and was sent to the Leisler legislature from Ulster. In consequence of this association, Rutten and his friends from Esopus were quite in the discard, so much so that the Dutch Reformed Church at Kingston, to please the rich patrons up the river, referring I suppose to the Schuylers and Van Rensselaers, entered on its records in 1699, "a resolution prohibiting baptism of children by the name Jacob" because that was the baptismal name of Leisler and Milburn.

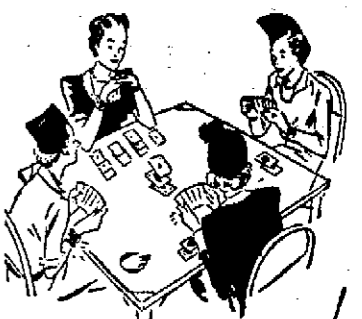

Nevertheless, the character of Jacob Rutten was such, he was so democratic in manner and so upright in his dealings that he held the admiration of the people to such an extent that only one year after the execution of Leisler in 1691, he was elected to the assembly and continued there for three years. The people of Ulster returned him to the general assembly from 1699 to 1703 and from 1713 to 1726. Besides he was justice of the peace, judge of the court of common pleas, captain, major, lieutenant-colonel of Ulster and Dutchess county troops in 1700 and colonel of the same from 1710 to 1728. The tract of land which I have described which Jacob Rutten acquired in 1680 he leased to one Dirck Keyser in consideration of his building a stone house thereon. Keyser built and occupied the house until 1700 when Jacob left his store in Kingston in charge of his son-in-law, Johannes Hardenbergh and moved to Rosendale. This old stone residence became a part of the Cornell Mansion which a few years ago stood opposite the place where we are tonight but being burned stands there no more. Jacob Rutten died in the 1730's and lies buried just south of the site of his house on the little knoll 'between two cedar posts.' Those posts have disappeared and in their place were placed two iron posts by one of Rosendale's most enterprising and remarkable citizens, Allan McKenzie, resident and traveler in distant lands, a profound philosopher, writer of beautiful poetry and exemplary citizen.

But Jacob Rutten has not died, he still lives and the consequences of his life are still apparent. His daughter married Johannes Hardenbergh and after his death his son-in-law and daughter occupied the old mansion. After him was named the Hardenbergh patent containing one million five hundred thousand acres. When the survey was made of the New Paltz Patent, it has been claimed that he persuaded Surveyor General Graham of the Colony not to include the Dashville Falls in the survey, it was the occasion of the curve in the line between the island of Happaos in the Hudson at Judge Parker's and the inscription at the foot of Tawaari Taqui.

By the union of Johannes Hardenbergh and Catherine Rutten there was born one Johannes Hardenbergh, who became a colonel of the New York militia, member of the Colonial Assembly, field officer of Washington, elder of the church, and an original trustee of Queens College. He married Marie DuBois, granddaughter of Louis DuBois, grand-daughter of Louis DuBois of New Paltz patent.

They had a son, Jacob Rutten Hardenbergh, born at Rosendale, and baptized at Kingston, February 22, 1736. He became the minister of the Dutch Reformed Church and with his father, Colonel Johannes Hardenbergh, and several other men in the provinces of New York and New Jersey, in 1767, procured from the Colonial Governor William Franklin, a son of the famous Benjamin Franklin, a charter for Queens College, Rutgers since 1820.

Having luck with pictures?

... or are you "mad" at your expensive, hard-to-focus camera?

Outdoor Days are here again, with their picture-taking inspiration. Think of the fun of wandering, and just snapping what you see, quick as you see it, relying on that simple old standby, the Eastman box camera with its excellent lens. It has to take good pictures.

Brownie Junior is only $2.50
Brownie Six-16, $3

The children need one of their own, and at the price, you can afford an "extra" camera.
